More than 35 firms bidding

Initial bids set city hall price tag at $1.6 million

by STEVE BROWN

Preliminary tabulations of bids for the construction of the proposed Des Plaines City Hall show that the structure will cost about $1.6 million.

A record number of bids for the six-story structure were opened Friday before more than 50 contractors and city officials. The city hall is the first phase in a planned $2.2. building for police and municipal offices.

The $1,600,000 estimated price tag was several hundred thousand dollars above what the city had estimated, according to Mayor Herbert Behrel. He added that the city might be able to reduce the total cost of the building by eliminating some features.

BIDS WERE opened for general, electrical, plumbing and heating contractors. More than 35 firms bid on various aspects of the projects.

The bids will be reviewed by the architectural firm of Holmes and Fox and presented to the city's building and grounds committee Monday for consideration.

Behrel said that the committee which is headed by Ald. Joseph Szabo (1), will probably recommend the three lowest bidders to the city council at their next meeting on Aug. 20. He said a contract might be awarded at that time.

He said the city will begin preparing to sell bonds for the new facility. The council voted in January to finance the facility through a non-referendum bond issue. Des Plaines has a bonding limit of one per cent of its assessed valuation, or about $3 million.

BASED ON the bids announced Friday, the apparent low bidder for the general contract is the Frederick Quinn Construction Co. of Elk Grove Village. The firm bid $1,169,691. The two other lowest bidders were the Kaiser-Deucett Corp. of Chicago, $1,288,000 and the Warchol Construction Co., of Chicago, $1,289,171.

The three apparent low bidders estimated that the project would take 365 working days to 400 working days to complete.

Other bids for the general contract ranged as high as $1,634,606 by Corbetta Construction Co. of Des Plaines.

The apparent low bidders for the plumbing work in the project were Ewing Plumbing Inc., of River Forest, $96,300; Schullo Plumbing Inc., of Chicago, $100,600 and Northern Plumbing and Heating Co. of Chicago, $104,100.

The highest bid for the plumbing contract, submitted by A.G.R. Piping Contractors, was $160,000.

Thirteen contractors entered bids for the electrical work in the city hall. The apparent low bid for the work was submitted by Wigdahl Electric Co. of Elk Grove Village, $203,500. Other low bids were presented by Public Electric Construction Co., of Chicago, $204,990 and A. C. Skon Co., Inc., of Chicago, $210,578.

The highest bid for the electrical work was submitted by the Charles Johnson Electrical Company, of Elmhurst, $273,990.

The contracts for heating ventilation and air conditioning work also drew 13 bidders. The two low bidders for the project were separated by only $11 on the main proposal.

William Adams Engineers, Inc., of Chicago bid $224,800; while Reliable Sheet Metal Works Inc., of Elk Grove Village bid $224,811. The third lowest bidder was James W. Hardy Inc. of Elk Grove Village, $228,500.

Construction on the building could begin as early as this fall. The present city hall will be razed at 1426-28 Miner St. to make way for the new facility.

The building hes been in the planning stage for more than five years. During that time a number of planning changes have altered the size and shape of the structure.

The building will include all village departments except police. A new police state will be built as the second phase of the civic center project.

DOING YARDWORK and adding that money to their dues, Post 120 of the Boys Scouts managed to save up enough money to "adopt" a 12-year-old Filipino boy. Hard at work are, from left, Dave Winecke, Bob Lau and Emil Marquardt. Yard work is getting scarcer, the boys said, but they're still making the $12 a month that supports their child overseas.

Financed by yardwork, dues

Explorers adopt Filipino boy

by REGINA OEHLER

With yardwork and monthly dues, Des Plaines Explorer Post 120 of the Boy Scouts of America is supporting a 12-year-old Filipino boy. For $12 a month, the troop has "adopted" Bonifacio Mendoza.

"We sort of liked the idea that it was a personal relationship with the boy," said John Korba, spokesman for the group.

The boys write to Bonifacio and Bonifacio writes back. The post has their child's Photo and personal history.

BONIFACIO'S FATHER is a field worker who does not make enough money to support his family. At present, Bonifacio is living in the school dormitory with other boys, waiting until things improve at home so he can return to his parents.

"He's really having a good time at the dormitory," said John "but I think he would still like to return home."

The $12 a month that the post sends helps pay for Bonifacio's schooling, clothing, food and housing at the Philippine Christian College. The college and the adopted child program is run by the Christian Children's Fund.

"Twelve dollars goes a long way," John said.

But, because of the tight money situation, the post is finding it harder and harder to save up as much as they have in the past.

"People think twice before hiring," he said. The post does yard work and "professional floor maintenance" for a donation, John said. The money, he added, is used for Bonifacio's support and post activities.

AT PRESENT, the boys are saving a little extra for Bonifacio's birthday which is coming up soon, John said. "They say its best not to send a present because of the high postage," he explained.

So the boys are sending the money to the college, where someone will purchase whatever item the boys decide to give their child.

"He likes games played with balls," John said. The post is considering buying Bonifacio a soccer ball or football. "We want to buy him something he could use with the other boys," John said.

John said the post was afraid that if they sent Bonifacio a catcher's mitt or some item that could be used by only one boy, the other children would be resentful.

Bonifacio also enjoys collecting stamps, John added. "I imagine the collection couldn't be too big," he said. Bonifacio gets all his stamps from letters the boys write or from the college.

JOHN SAID that the child is not the only one who benefits.

"The scouts have the satisfaction of helping other people who need it," he said, "We feel that it is a great privilege and opportunity to help another person in this way,"

"It expresses our Christian love to other people and helps them, but does not directly involve us." We couldn't get over there even if we wanted to, he explained.

Des Plaines 'riot' a glimpse of life here 60 years ago

OCTOBER 1, 1913:

The Village of Des Plaines last night was severed by a political and patriotic war that centered around William Lawson, its Socialist Mayor, in a determined effort to cause his impeachment and removal because of his published denunciation of the American soldier.

That statement in which the soldier was condemned as a "brute, who is blind, heartless and soulless," caused the Mayor to be mobbed at a meeting of the Village Council on Monday night, when threats were made against his safety and Mrs. John A. Bell, wife of the village clerk, emphasized her disapproval by spitting in the Mayor's eye.

Repeated threats against the Mayor were heard throughout Des Plaines that night. Even the discovery that the article denouncing the American soldier originally came from the pen of Jack London and that it first appeared in a Socialist paper, did not soften the indignation of the Mayor's foes.

Shouts of approval went up from groups of citizens at street corners last night when it was known that John A. Bell, the village clerk, asserted he would not sit at another council meeting presided over by Mayor Lawson. He also went to Chicago to make arrangements for the big mass meetings to be held the next day. At the meeting, citizens will be urged to rise in their might and demand Lawson's impeachment.

But the restless foes of Lawson were not content to wait. They held an impromptu mass meeting in the saloon of Frank Thoma, where an old brass cannon was rolled into view and American flags were draped back of an improvised platform.

Michael Brown was the principal orator. He made a florid speech in which patriotic utterances and denunciations of the Mayor were intermixed in equal parts. He was followed by another man, a mason contractor, who at the end of his speech said, "Let's go up to the Mayor's house and get him."

Cheers greeted this proposal and the mob started, but it dispersed a few at a time, long before the Mayor's house was teached.

A FEW DAYS LATER:

A defense of Mayor W. W. Lawson of Des Plaines, whose article on the United States Army, published in a local paper, was the cause of much disorder at the meeting of authorities there on Monday night, was made today by C. S. Stewart, one of the trustees of the town. In a letter of the "Evening Post," Mr. Stewart says:

The Chicago papers have given the Des Plaines "riot" so much space in the last 48 hours and the facts have been so warped that I could not refrain from making what seems to me to be a fair statement in regard to this unseemly affair.

It is well known in Cook County that the saloon element has dominated the village politics for years. Last spring, Mr. Lawson, the Socialist candidate, was elected mayor by a large majority. His victory was brought about by an anti-saloon vote.

THE PLOT THICKENS:

Lawson said the people were with him.

"I held an open house the other night," continued Lawson, "and more than 100 callers urged me to drive the saloons out bodily next Spring. The good people are all with me."

While a reporter was doing some research on Des Plaines, and what the town was like during the early 1900s, he found a few old newspaper clippings from "The Chicago Examiner" on the Lawson scandal. The above story was reprinted, only no conclusion was available. But a few Des Plaines old-timers supplied the reporter with a possible conclusion, They said, during that era, the town was divided between the "wets" and the "drys." They also said the "wets" won, the saloons stayed, and Lawson disappeared shortly after the big showdown and was never heard from again.

Brookwood marks 10 years

Brookwood Convalescent and Nursing Center, 2380 Dempster St., is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month.

The first phase of Brookwood, a 111-bed facility was opened August, 1963.

The 1970 opening of a five-story $2.8 million building addition made Brookwood one of the largest private nursing homes in Illinois.

Brookwood now has 290 beds and a professional staff.

A registered therapist and assistant, full-time dietitian and registered pharmacist, provide services to patients.

Brookwood is designed and equipped to provide comprehensive hospital like care in a nursing home setting.

Each floor contains a combination of private, two-bed and four-bed rooms, completely furnished and linked to the home's nursing station by a nurse-call network.

Built with reinforced steel, concrete and Ohio brick, the structure is completely air-conditioned, with thermostatic control in each room.

A ceramic-tiled hydrotherapy room, gymnasium and electrotherapy section are available in physical therapy.

Throughout the new and old sections of the home, a fire alarm system is connected directly to the Des Plaines Fire Department. The system can be activated by an employe or through special heat and smoke detectors.

Al-Anon holding public meetings

Those who are concerned about another person's drinking are invited to attend the meetings of the Al-Anon Family Group held weekly in Des Plaines.

Because the problems of alcoholism do not take a "vacation," meetings are held during the summer months. Persons who attend the meetings are non-alcoholics. Members learn about the progressive stages of alcoholism and how to cope with the problem.

Teen-age children of alcoholics often find that they too need the help of a special purpose group. For them, Alateen with the same goals as Al-Anon, meets all year. For information call 848-2707.

Mill Street residents ask for rezoning

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Residents in the Mill Street River Road area are petitioning the city council to rezone or not rezone their multiple-family housing district located just northwest of the downtown area.

Sixty-one persons from River Street, Des Plaines Avenue (River Road) and Mill Street signed petitions circulated by former mayoral candidate Burton Kosmen asking the area be rezoned for single-family dwellings and "to halt any present or future attempts by realtors, builders or other interested parties to construct multiple family dwellings . . ."

Kosmen's petition was in response to a pro-multiple family zoning petition submitted by 14 Mill Street residents to Ald. Joseph Szabo (1st).

A NUMBER OF petitions have been signed and submitted to local, and state officials recently by Kosmen and other residents. They have objected to the "impacting" of the area (additional multi-family buildings) and asked for a moratorium on sewer permits in the section.

The area comprising several blocks was one of many neighborhoods on the periphery of downtown Des Plaines rezoned in 1967 from single family to multiple family districts.

Kosmen has charged that residents were not given a voice when the rezoning was considered by the city council and zoning board. City officials say otherwise.

"They were given plenty of voice," said Mayor Herbert Behrel at a recent press conference. "The rezoning of all those areas took months and we held a number of public hearings."

"The residents were generally in agreement (with rezoning the area)," said Ald. Ewald Swanson (6th) who was in office at the time and attended the various hearings. "I think their criticism that they weren't given a voice is very unfair. The hearings went on for six months; it was in the papers all the time."

Swanson said he was very surprised to find out residents were petitioning to have the area rezoned. "I haven't seen the petitions yet but we will discuss them when they get to our committee."

BOTH SETS of petitions have been referred to Swanson's municipal development committee for further study.

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach, who received the petitions prior to last week's city council meeting, pointed out that all but 10 of the people who signed Kosmen's petition already live in multiple family housing units.

Sixty-one of Kosmen's petitioners live at 1633 Mill St.; 18 live at 659 Des Plaines Ave. (River Road).

The 14 asking to remain under multiple family zoning are single family residents.

"R-5 (multiple family) is a valid zoning for that area," said City Planner Michael Richardson. "R-5 provides a number of things. You have a fairly large residential area in a number of units close to the downtown area.

"The people in those units provide a market for the downtown shopping area and a labor supply. They are also close to mass transportation — the railroad and bus lines.

"The area is kind of like a mini-city within a city," he continued.

"Rezoning the area in Des Plaines was a proper thing to do. The way Des Plaines was set up with railroads in the center of town and the deterioration of the downtown area, there was a need for revitalization and redevelopment," he said.

Richardson said the rezoning raised property values considerably. "The property is worth more because you can put more on it. It can be developed more. If it were rezoned the property value would drop."

SINGLE FAMILY homes can still be built in the R-5 area under the present ordinance but Richardson said no single homes have been built there in quite a few years. "It isn't economically smart," he said.

The petitions may be reviewed tonight at the 7:30 p.m. meeting of the municipal development committee. It is doubtful that any future zoning changes will be made however.

"If they were going to petition they should have done it years ago," Behrel said. "Now it's a little late."

Higher prices certain Phase IV result: marketing prof

Consumers can anticipate one sure-fire result of the new Phase IV rules effective this week: rising prices. And they can also expect to hear a great deal about the "iffy" outlook for the economy, says Charles Lapp, professor of marketing in the graduate school of business, Washington University in St. Louis.

One bright spot on the horizon is that the whole concoction of regulations and red tape will prove so unworkable that it will be scrapped in favor of the free enterprise system, Lapp says. "Phase IV is not only complicated and difficult to enforce, but also, to the extent it is effective, it will compound the problem and perpetuate inequities that have been brought about in the past three and a half phases," he said recently.

"Feeders of cattle, hogs and poultry as well as egg and milk producers have been hard hit by the cost price squeeze and it will take some time with increased costs for a profitable turnaround," adds the professor. "Even the most optimistic observers say it will be well into 1974 before we can have a substantial increase in beef and pork production."

"TYPICALLY, THE ultimate consumer can anticipate nothing but higher and higher prices in the next six months unless they change their spending patterns," Lapp says. He predicts that interest rates will continue to climb, "but brakes applied by the Federal Reserve will bring about an even worse crunch in the money supply."

There is a possibility of a recession in the next year, but Lapp says this is about as easy to judge as predicting the weather. Signs of an overheated economy are supply shortages, poor quality, poor service and rising employment, as indicated in a recent National Association of Purchasing Management survey.

Cutbacks in federal spending and a housing industry decline in some areas also adds to a gloomy outlook, concedes Douglas Dodds, president of the First Arlington National Bank in Arlington Heights. But he sees improving balance of payments picture as a positive indicator for the future. Agricultural exports are rising faster than oil imports, he says, and they are now two and a half times the size of oil imports.

Dodds also foresees a greater U.S. interest, by European and Asian investors in the U.S. stock market, less upward pressure on interest rates as the fiscal position of the federal government improves, and eventual flattening out of commodities prices.

Don't expect a quick rebound from the damage of controls, however, warn economists at Chicago's Harris Trust and Savings Bank. In the bank's recent Barometer of Business publication, the economists said, "Regardless of the changes that are made in Phase IV regulations, it will take an extended period of time to undo the damage that has already been done to the economy, particularly the food industry." By reducing the incentives to increase or maintain production, the latest controls package has set the stage for an extended period of sub-par economic performance characterized by relatively high rates of inflation and only meager gains in real growth."

THE RETURN to tight controls is a response to the most dramatic inflationary surge in the past 22 years, the report said. Harris economists tie the price boosts to federal budget deficits, rapid monetary growth, production capacity limitations in the U.S. and the devalued dollar which has made American products inexpensive to foreigners. During the current period of worldwide crop shortages and booming economies, this means an inflationary scramble for food and other U.S. products.

"The philosophy underlying Phase IV controls appears to be that prices should be held down in all areas unless there are clear signs that shortages or distortions have developed," continued the report. When the Administration watchdogs in the Cost of Living Council finally decide to loosen controls in one sector of the economy to boost production, the results may be slow to appear.

"Meanwhile, prices in many decontrolled areas will rise swiftly as shortages in output are allocated among consumers. This process is now occuring in the areas of chicken and pork as the effects of production cutbacks during the freeze are being felt at the retail level," they concluded.

Bread prices to rise as dough falls

by LEA TONKIN

As dough is heated it rises and, likewise, the hot competition for short supplies in the baking industry will cause the price for a loaf of bread to go up as well, the president of a Chicago-based bakery cooperative predicts.

Robert Kett, top executive of the W. E. Long Independent Bakers Cooperative, says "Bread is a bargain, and it's a good nutritional food. But you're looking at a 3 to 6 cent a pound increase within the next month and a half. This is not the problem — it's the supply outlook."

Kett's cooperative group includes 80 member companies across the United States, Canada and Mexico. He says bakers are having trouble now getting their flour supplies. "They have to go to more than one mill for their supplies of flour, and the mills won't take on new customers," Kett says.

AS EXPLAINED by Vice Pres. Thomas Bell of Palatine, the heavy competition for wheat flour and for durum wheat began following the grain deals with the Soviet Union and other countries last year.

"We have been suffering price increases on flour on a weekly basis since then," he said. "Wheat flour was $5.70 a hundredweight a year ago; now it is over $12 a hundredweight. Packaging costs have increased, and our shortening costs have gone up 40 per cent."

This is affecting bakeries and the manufacturers of other products in which wheat is an ingredient. "You're going to see fewer varieties of bakery items," predicts Kett. By early 1974, he says, "You'll be down to just wheat bread, less cake and sweet goods.

"Spaghetti and macaroni and those products may disappear from the shelves by the end of this year," he sayd. Durum wheat is used in these products.

GRAIN DEALERS have already sold approximately 90 per cent of the total U.S. wheat crops from July 1 of this year through July, 1974, says Kett. "There is plenty of wheat available, but the commitments against the supply are so great that it's keeping the market short all the time," he said. Poor weather conditions or shipping problems could cause a critical shortage, Kett added.

"We recommend an embargo, or at least licensing of these exports," he said. Licensing would mean that grain dealers would have to apply for a license each time they plan to make a wheat shipment overseas. Kett noted that Argentina and the Common Market countries already have imposed an embargo on the export of wheat, and that export controls are in effect in other countries.

"It would mean going back and canceling some commitments," he said. But a number of massive grain sales shouldn't have been made, Kett said. The effect of this export spree is a tight U.S. supply picture. Flour mills are experiencing difficulty in gaining supplies for their U.S. customers.

Another shortage on the horizon is in shortening, lard and vegetable oils used in many products. Kett said the lard shortage could be attributed to the declining slaughter of animals in some areas. "We think there may be an adequate supply of soy oil," he said. "But some suppliers may be holding back to get higher prices."

Herald staffer wins award from Heart Assn.

A story by Herald Staff Writer Jerry Thomas has earned the newspaper the 1973 Outstanding Service Award for Public Information given by the Heart Association of North Cook County.

"Jerry Thomas wrote such a fine story about the new concepts in teaching heart disease prevention in the Schaumburg Schools," said Virginia Hunter, division director, "we would like to publicly acknowledge the story."

Jerry Thomas

"This is only the second time we have made this award since we do not give it unless we think a story warrants it," she said.

Mrs. Thomas' story dealt with a program on heart disease taught in Schaumburg Township Elementary School Dist. 54. The Heart Association of North Cook County is helping to implement the curriculum in area schools.

Probe arson in $100,000 Hancock fire

Chicago fire department officials are conducting an arson investigation into a fire early Sunday at John Hancock center. Mrs. Soondra Ornoff, owner of Tin Pan Alley cookware shop, entered the store to discover two unindentified men who set fire to the shop. Total damage including smooke which reached to upper floors of the 100-story building, was estimated at $100,000.

Workers end Chrysler wildcat strike

United Auto Workers voted Sunday to end a six-day wildcat strike at the Chrysler Detroit Forge plant that disrupted bargaining on a national contract and threatened the start of production of 1974 model Chrysler cars. However, a number of workers disputed the show-of-hands vote, which was not counted, and vowed to continue the unauthorized strike in defiance of the union, the company and a federal court injunction prohibiting it.

Skylab assignment done despite problems

Bothered by a failing spacecraft stabilization system that may require an unscheduled spacewalk for repairs, the Skylab 2 astronauts managed to snap detailed pictures on their last earth resources assignment for three weeks. They now will perform more research on man's reaction to weightlessness, more solar observation and the looming problem with their gyroscopes.

Sea conditions deter treasure hunters

Rough seas Sunday made it tougher for two divers trying to reach a safe aboard the sunken luxury liner Andrea Doria where they expect to find $2 million in cash and jewels. The liner sank 45 miles off Nantucket Island after colliding with a Swedish ship in 1956.

Militants to dominate Indian talks

The American Indian Movement, which planned and led the 71-day holdout at Wounded Knee, S.D., is emerging as the major force with which a White House delegation must deal Sept. 5 in yet another showdown on Indian treaty rights. At issue will be the claim of the Soux Nation that a 1968 government treaty gives them rights to all the land in western South Dakota.

Israel defends air interception

Israel Sunday defended the interception of an Arab passenger plane over Lebanon by Israeli warplanes as an act of "self-defense" against terrorism. The 2,000-member Guild of Air Pilots, however, termed the forcing of the airliner to an Israeli military base an "act of piracy" and called for expulsion of Israel from the International Civil Aviation Organization. At the request of Lebanon, the UN Security Council meets today on the incident.

Demonstrators simultaneously protesting aginst the internment of extremists in the two Irelands battled police and troops Sunday in Belfast, Dublin and London. The protests were organized by the Sinn Fein, political arms of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, and civil rights groups.

Libya confiscates second U.S. oil firm

The Libyan government has nationalized 51 per cent of Occidental Oil Co. in what Libyan officials said Sunday was "another slap in the face of America" because of its support of Israel. It was the second takeover of American-owned oil holdings in Libya by Col. Moammar Khadafy's government since June 11, when Khadafy announced takeover of the Bunker Hunt Oil Co.

Korean oil train crash kills 18

An oil-carrying train jumped the rails and overturned at a provincial station about 110 miles south of Seoul yesterday and touched off fires in nearby homes that resulted in at least 18 deaths, nine severe burn injuries, and 14 persons listed as missing.

Police seek clues in St. Croix slayings

Aided by police dogs flown in from Miami and Puerto Rico, St. Croix police were searching Sunday for clues to killers of five white persons during the past 18 days on the predominantly black island in the U.S. Virgin Islands. Three of the victims were slain this weekend as a jury in one mass murder case continued its deliberations for the ninth day, delaying another mass murder trial.

Cambodia bombing: the deep secret

A news analysis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With American bombing of Cambodia ending at midnight tomorrow, the story of how it began in deepest secrecy almost 53 months ago is still very much a mystery that has provoked unanswered questions with far-reaching implications.

Congress forced the bombing cutoff, blocking funds for further U.S. military activity anywhere in Southeast Asia. The vote reflected America's disenchantment with the nation's longest war.

But neither Congress nor the public got a chance to voice an opinion when the bombing started March 18, 1969. Until just four weeks ago, the administration led the nation and its legislators to believe the first raids were flown in May, 1970.

The first 14 months of the air war in Cambodia were, in fact, one of the best kept secrets of the Indochina conflict. Most military men and Defense Department officials remained totally in the dark. So closely was the information guarded that the Pentagon was lying to Congress and the public in official records until a month ago, saying the raids took place in South Vietnam.

The lid of secrecy was pierced by former Air Force Maj. Hal Knight, one of the men involved in the bombing and its cover-up, who stepped forward to tell the truth July 16 to the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The bombing started under the code name "Operation Menu" and continued through May 26, 1970. A total of 3,630 B52 strikes sent 103,921 tons of bombs down on six North Vietnamese base areas inside Cambodia.

Each plane was launched toward a cover target in South Vietnam and was diverted by radioed instructions to the real target in Cambodia after it was airborne.

The Senate hearings so far have failed to determine who ordered Operation Menu and precisely what those orders said. The Pentagon has hinted those facts may never be known fully, saying the orders might have been oral rather than written.

Other questions still unanswered go far beyond the scope of the bombing itself.

— Was it, as the administration says, entirely for diplomatic reasons that the veil of secrecy was erected? Or was it because of the militant antiwar climate in the U.S.?

— Does the present chain of command give adequate civilian control over the military?

— Did the details of the bombing cover-up originate at the White House and the National Security Council, or were they worked out at a lower level in the Pentagon or in the field and what did those orders say?

— Why ws the Pentagon still maintaining such deep secrecy about the Operation Menu bombing as recently as last spring, three years after the operation ended?

— Was President Nixon deliberately deceiving the nation April 30, 1970, when he went on natiowide television to announce the ground invasion of Cambodia and said that for the past five years the United States had respected Cambodian neutrality and had not attacked North Vietnamese sanctuary areas there?

— Was the administration justified in telling some half dozen congressmen the broad outlines of the secret air war, but leaving the committees that voted money for the war under the impression they were not providing funds for fighting in Cambodia?

— How are lower ranking men in the field to know whether they are covering up the secret activities really authorized by the commander-in-chief?

Bombing to end, Sihanouk return?

(From Herald news services)

Two big questions loom in Cambodia today: will American bombing stop, and to what extent is the United States getting involved in a shuffle of governments?

The bombing, in support of besieged government troops, is to end at midnight tomorrow in compliance with a Congressonal cutoff of funds. Critics of American involvement are waiting anxiously to see if the deadline will be honored.

Meantime, high-ranking members of the Cambodian government are said to have asked the Nixon administration to arrange for the removal of President Lon Nol, replacing him with exiled Prince Norodom Sihanouk, ousted in March of 1970.

Sihanouk currently heads a government-in-exile in Peking, and the theory is that there will be a better chance to diminish further bloodshed with him in power.

Sources said if Washington agrees to the plan, presidential adviser Henry Kissinger would carry the outline of strategy to Chinese leaders during an upcoming visit to Peking, a trip that has been postponed indefinitely without explanation.

At the same time, Sihanouk would be approached by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, an old friend and Southeast Asian expert, and asked what prior conditions he might want to put on his return.

The sources conceded Lon Nol might have to be removed by force, perhaps in a maneuver to move the president — who is crippled from a stroke — to an American hospital for treatment.

Kissinger downplayed the reports, saying they do not "seem to be true." The White House declined comment.

But Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, predicted that Lon Nol will fall and Sihanouk return "in a relatively short time after America bombing ends.

WITH AMERICAN bombing support to end at midnight tomorrow, the military focus in Southeast Asia centers on Cambodia. Rebel forces continue intense pressure around the capital city of Phnom Penh, concentrating on blocking off the main roads into the city.

Phase IV will begin its bite today

(From Herald news services)

Shoppers are braced for a surge of price increases on most products except beef and petroleum today as President Nixon's price freeze gives way to Phase IV of his anti-inflation campaign.

With Phase IV having taken effect at midnight, prices on nearly all goods and services are free to rise within a range laid out in rules administered by the Cost of Living Council and most firms were expected to race to mark up the prices that were held in check during the two-month freeze.

The general expectation was that many prices would jump as much as 10 per cent.

But consumers will not feel the impact of all increases until mid-September, since the biggest corporations — those with annual sales of more than $100 million — will have to give the government 30 days advance notice before boosting their prices. Phase IV rules also require businessmen to reduce prices under certain conditions, but few cuts were expected.

Nixon imposed the latest freeze June 13 and has been lifting it gradually to prevent a sudden price explosion and give the economy time to absorb the higher costs that the government concedes are on the way.

Thus, food prices — except beef — were unfrozen July 13. Gasoline, home heating oil and other petroleum products will remain frozen an extra week, until Aug. 19, and beef will remain under price ceilings until Sept. 12.

The basic rule governing price increases under Phase IV is that a company may add a penny to its price tags for every cent it incurs in higher labor, raw material and other costs. But nothing extra can be added for profit.

Recognizing that a 2 per cent increase might be overly generous in one industry but a hardship in another, the Cost of Living Council has published separate price rules on top of that general guideline for retailers, wholesalers, and the food, health, insurance and petroleum industries.

As in the past, Internal Revenue Service agents will be assigned to make sure the stabilization rules are followed.

Anger with the Phase IV regulations is being shown most noticeably in the Chicago area by independent gasoline dealers, who say restrictions are hurting them too much. They've threatened a massive shutdown of their stations in the metropolitan area, possibly for the weekend of August 24-26, in protest. The independents represent some 4,000 stations in the Chicago-Gary area.

Nixon Watergate report due this week

(From Herald news services)

President Nixon, wrapping up a long weekend at Camp David, Md., is to report to the nation on Watergate this week.

Mr. Nixon flew to the mountain retreat Wednesday afternoon to work on a statement of defense to the various charges and allegations directed toward him on the bugging case, particularly during the nationally-televised hearings of the Senate Watergate Committee. The president's statement also is to be aired on national television, probably mid-week, and is expected to be paired with a "white paper."

A Republican member of the Watergate committee, Connecticut Sen. Lowell Weicker, says the president should release all tapes and memorandums on the case if he wants to restore the confidence of the American public in the integrity of the administration.

Weicker said the president's planned response this week "will not be enough," and asked, "How many more instances of dirty politicis in the government must we uncover before we realize the whole concept of politicis has been thrown to the level of the gutter?"

Fellow GOP committee member and vice-chairman Howard Baker of Tennessee stressed the group has a lot more evidence to hear. Likening the testimony so far to a court case halfway through, Baker said if the committee voted to issue an interim report before resuming hearings Sept. 10, he would not sign it.

Under the Senate resolution which established it, the committee must file a written report by Feb. 28.

In other Watergate-related matters:

— Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said the cover-up might have continued indefinitely if he had defeated Nixon last November. It was "a series of fortuitous events, many of them unlikely in a different political context," that made the unraveling possible, he said.

— Three important documents relating to the case are reported missing from the office of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. A spokesman said they might be mislaid.

— Republican national chairman George Bush said the Nixon-Agnew campaign organization had some $2.5 million salted away in 1968, but still pleaded for help from the GOP national committee in 1972. Bush said he's laying claim to get any money left from the Committee to Re-elect the President after all its bills are paid and lawsuits resulting from the Watergate break-in are settled.

Police to resume search, answer critics in Texas

HOUSTON (UPI) — Parents of two young boys, both believed to be among the 23 victims in a Texas murder binge, claim police ignored their sons' disappearance and branded at least seven other missing youths as runaways.

Police Chief Herman B. Short said he would answer the growing criticism of his department's handling of missing person cases at a news conference today.

Police have unearthed 23 bodies at three locations and the macabre search will resume today along a sand and salt grass beachfront 51 miles east of Houston.

Two teen-agers involved in the bizarre case — Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, and David Brooks, 18 — told police they buried six or more bodies along the High Island beach.

Only five bodies have been positively identified but police have a long list of missing teenagers they now feel may be among the dead.

"You don't run away with nothing but a bathing suit and 80 cents," said Selma Winkle, whose 16-year-old son left his home two years ago with David Hellgeist to go swimming. Both boys never returned.

"If all these children were reported missing in this northwest Houston area, we couldn't understand why they (the police) didn't do anything," Dorothy Hellgeist said. Both women said talking to police about their son's cases was like "talking to a blank wall."

Henley and Brooks have admitted they took part in a three-year sex, sadism and slaying scheme with Dean Allen Corll, 33. Both youths have been charged with murder. Henley said he killed Corll in self-defense Wednesday during a paint-sniffing orgy.

Both Henley and Brooks led police to burial sites last week. Officers dug up 17 bodies in a tin boat shed in Houston, unearthed four more near Lake Sam Rayburn at Broaddus, Tex., and two more on the High Island beach.

Deputies patrolled the beach Sunday by foot and on horses, trying to keep curiosity seekers and newsmen out of the soft sandy area.

"I've got boys making trips at intervals down there to make sure there's no one digging or upsetting the applecart," Chambers County Sheriff Lewis B. Otter said.

The sheriff said the digging would resume at 10 a.m. using earth movers.

Just Politics

by Bob Lahey

State representatives from the Northwest suburbs lagged slightly behind the entire House of Representatives in their support of "women's rights" legislation, while state senators from the five Northwest suburban legislative districts were far behind the cumulative average.

The survey conducted by the National Organization of Women (NOW) turned up only five of 15 Northwest suburban representatives they considered "firm" supporters of women's rights, and none of the five senators.

The survey, like others, is subjective, based on selected votes, and giving more weight to some issues than others. (Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, for instance, got an 88 per cent from the Illinois League of Women Voters, which included issues other than those directly connected to women's right.)

AT ANY RATE, Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, not surprisingly earned 100 per cent from NOW, as did Rep. Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine.

Republicans Robert Juckett of Park Ridge and Richard Walsh of Oak Park got zero ratings in the survey.

Other ratings by NOW:

House — Rep. Harold Katz, D-Glencoe, and Rep. John Porter, R-Evanston, 88 per cent; Rep. Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, and Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, 63 per cent; Rep. Edward Bluthardt, R-Schiller Park, and Rep. Jack Williams, D-Franklin Park, 38 per cent; Rep. John Friedland, R-South Elgin, Rep. Leo LaFleur, R-Bloomingdale, Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, all 25 per cent.

• Senate — Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, 67 per cent; Sen. John Graham, Barrington, Sen. Howard Mohr, R-Forest Park; and Sen. John J. Minrod, R-Skokie, all 33 per cent; and Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, 17 percent.

Cumulative averages showed the suburban representatives voting for issues favored by NOW 51 per cent of the time, while the whole House averaged 55 per cent. In the Senate, the suburban members had a 36.6 cumulative average, compared with a Senate total of just over 60 per cent.

NOW gave most weight in its ratings to votes on the Equal Rights Amendment of the U. S. Constitution, which was defeated on the floor of the House and bottled up in committee in the Seante.

Republicans, Porter and Macdonald joined Democrats Chapman, Jaffe, Katz and Mugalian is voting for ERA, while Democrat Williams and eight other Republicans opposed it.

In the Senate, only Glass voted for a resolution to discharge the committee from consideration of the equal rights amendment and bring the resolution to the floor.

THE NATURE of the survey, however, makes it a flimsy guide to judging some of the legislators on women's rights.

None of the 15 suburban legislators, for instance, opposed a bill — used in the survey — to prohibit discrimination against women in the issuance of credit cards, though some cast no vote and thus were penalized in the NOW ratings.

That bill was given the same weight in the survey as one that would have made Susan B. Anthony's birthday a commemorative holiday.

Likewise, NOW gave a quantity of "3" to a vote in the House which would have suspended the rules to require only a simple majority vote, rather than a two-thirds majority to approve the ERA. The vote on ERA itself was weighted at "2."

Therefore, representatives who opposed changing the House rules on parliamentary grounds — as did Bluthardt and Duff — but voted for the equal rights amendment, were penalized in the NOW ratings.

Harper asks $7.8 million for buildings

by KATHERINE BOYCE

Harper College is asking for $7.8 million to construct buildings on its campus and is hoping this year the state will approve the funds.

The college has been asking for state funds for several years to expand facilities on its campus to meet increasing student enrollment. Last year, the state has refused to grant the full amount of Harper's request.

When Harper asked for $7.8 million last year, the governor's office approved $6 million. Thursday night the Harper board of trustees voted to again ask for the full amount for the 1975 fiscal year. The money will be used to construct buildings adding 195,000 square feet of space to the college campus. The state, under provisions of the Illinois Junior College Act, pays 75 per cent of the cost.

HARPER VICE Pres. William Mann, said Thursday Harper is not receiving fair treatment from the state in fullfilling requests for funds. The state distributes money for construction on junior college campus in a priority listing which Mann said is "completely wrong."

Colleges that are just beginning to build a campus and have never received state funds receive first priority, he said, and colleges that are expanding their facilities are placed second. In recent years, there hasn't been enough money to approve the full amount for Harper.

Mann said the priority system is based on the amount of money colleges have already received, not the amount they need. New colleges with small enrollments are receiving the full amount of their requests while colleges with large enrollments, like Harper, are forced to take the leftovers, he said.

Harper board chairman Jessalyn Nicklas said the college will continue to be aggressive in asking for money to phase three and four construction on the campus.

IN OTHER ACTION, Thursday night, the board heard a report from Ron Helper, supervisor for college architects, Caudill, Rowlett and Scott, on the status of phase two construction on the campus.

Building K and D, the music building and extension of the science building, are about 54 per cent complete, said Helper, and are planned for occupancy for the spring semester.

The board also approved seven members to the Harper Education Foundation board of directors and named college trustee Marilyn Marier as the board's representative. The foundation is a nonprofit organization that will solicit private funds for the college.

THE BOARD approved the appointment of Robert Atcher, Mayor of Schaumburg, Roger A. Bjorvik, attorney for the village of Palatine; Virginia Hayter, Mayor of Hoffman Estates; Robert Lahti, Harper College president and resident of Inverness; James R. Lancaster, president of the Bank of Elk Grove and resident of Mount Prospect; William J. Pailey, Sr., president of Memory Gardens Cemetery in Arlington Heights and resident of Buffalo Grove; and William Simpson, an industrial executive and resident of Wheeling.

In May, the college board appointed John Kuranz, former Harper trustee from Barrington Hills, Jack Pahl, former mayor of Elk Grove Village, and John Woods, former mayor of Arlington Heights, to the foundation. The college is still seeking a representative of Rolling Meadows to serve on the foundation board.

A leave of absence was approved by the board Thursday for Donn Stansbury, director of admissions and registrar at Harper. Stansbury has been selected by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers to participate in a workshop studying education system in Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Finland and Denmark. He will return to Harper on Oct. 12.

Methodist nursery school

Children enrolled in nursery school at First United Methodist Church, Graceland and Prairie, will begin the school year with a get acquainted interview the week of Sept. 3. Parents will be notified by mail of the date and time of their child's interview. This meeting will provide an opportunity for each child to meet his teachers and become familiar with the surroundings of the nursery school. Regular classes will begin Sept. 13.

There are a few openings for children who will be three years old by Dec. 1. For information call 827-5561.

Preschool registration

Children enrolled in Preschool Education Center's summer program were recent guests of Burger King. After touring Burger King, and meeting the King, the children were given crowns, hand puppets, and Burger King specialities.

Preschool Education Center is located at 9000 Home Ave., Des Plaines. A limited number of registrations are now being taken for the fall term which begins Sept. 4. Open house for parents and other interested persons will be held Aug. 29 from 1 to 3 p.m.

Maine West pool closing

The Des Plaines Park District swimming pools at Chippewa, Iroquois and Rand Parks will be open through Labor Day. Maine West pool will close Sunday for cleaning and be ready to open when the high school starts its fall semester.

Tennis results

The Des Plaines Park District youth tennis classes ended recently with the annual class tournaments. The winners were: boys 11 and under, Jeff English and Mike Paul; girls 11 and under, Barb Flemming and Denise Aniol; boys 13 and under, Tom Krauser and Andy Packard; girls 13 and under, Nancy Webber and Mary Ellen Salerno; boys 15 and under, Brad Rees and Rich Emling; girls 15 and under, Cindy Lieziewski and Jenny Bruhns.

Jewish open house

The community is invited to attend an "open house" Aug. 26 at Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard Rd. Tours of the facilities will be conducted from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The open house will afford an opportunity for the community to meet the spiritual leader, Rabbi Jay Karzen, Cantor Harry Solowinchik, Pres. Melvin Dick, and other lay leaders of the congregation who will be able to answer any questions regarding the educational facilities, high holidays, nursery school and affiliate groups.

A Viking

Robert Bottger is a master of the wind, he can harness nature with a simple cloth

by MARY HOULIHAN

In the world of wild wind and water, Robert Bottger is a master — he can harness nature with cloth.

In a giant building called a loft, Bottger makes sails to power sailboats. His loft, behind a small office near Pratt Avenue in Elk Grove Village, is filled with huge, long tables, patterns and designs hanging from the walls, and many fans with miles of extension cord attached to them.

The whole operation is called Viking Sales, Inc., and it all belongs to Bottger.

Even before he was born, Bottger's life was tied up in sailing and sailboats.

His parents spent their honeymoon on a sailboat, and his father, Christian Bottger, was an accomplished sailmaker on City Island, N.Y., the center of the yachting industry.

CHRISTIAN Bottger's wife was the one with the real heritage, however. At the age of seven, she had already been around the world twice with her father, a ship's captain. Her father was more than just a sailor, though.

"When things got quiet, and there was no wind, they would lay out the cloth on the ship and begin cutting for sails," said Bottger of his father-in-law.

Though he was born into the center of the yachting industry, Bottger learned his sail-making trade in Chicago.

"My uncle had a sail loft here," he said, the hint of the Eastern seaboard still in his voice. "Then I went back and worked with my father. But I came up the easy way. I owned half the business when I started," he said.

At the time Bottger first started in the industry, Egyptian cotton woven in England was the main material used for sails. "It was rather costly," he said.

"Now the sails are almost exclusively cut out of dacron. Nylon is used for the spinnakers, the large full triangular-shaped sail that looks almost like a parachute at the top.

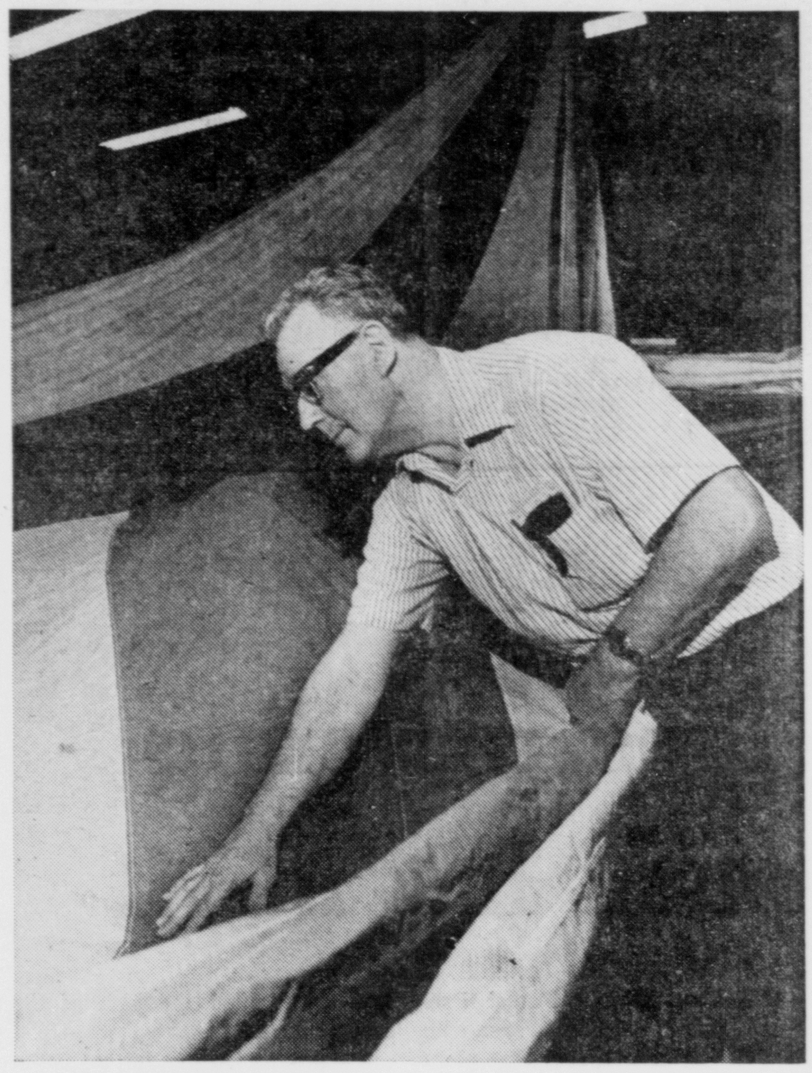
"DuPONT MAKES THE polyester fibers. Howe and Bainbridge of Boston fabricate it," Bottger explained.

According to Bottger, the price for sailcloth is now about the same as it used to be for cotton. "Egyptian cotton would probably cost about three times as much now," he said.

The dacron will hold up "anywhere from three to five to maybe 25 years," he said. It lasts a lot longer than the cotton. "Cotton is subject to mildew and it deteriorates in weathering," he said.

Most sails today are white opaque because it used to be the only color available in sailing dacron. It's only recently that sail cloth fabric manufacturers have been successful in dying the tough dacron cloth.

One variation that has been successful in the sailcloth is putting plastic "windows" in the sail so the sailor can see better what he is doing. "Racing boats usually have them," Bottger said. The plastic is secured with a ring around the outer edge sewn into the cloth.



A SAIL TO TAME the wind. Robert Bottger, owner of the Viking Sales Inc., checks the seams on one of the many sails he manufactures at his sail loft in Elk Grove Village. Bottger learned the ancient trade of sail-making from his father. His father-in-law, a ship's captain, also made sails when the wind was quiet on his sailing vessel.

SAILS THEMSELVES are cut by hand from set patterns. "Basically, the design is laid out and the sails are made from narrow panels," said Bottger.

The cutting of the sails is done "more or less by eye." he said. "It used to be considered an art, but the computer is helping quite a bit now." The computer is used to figure optimum sizes and also to give the sailmakers the shape of the sail.

All the seaming on the sails is done by sewing machine. This may sound like progress stepping in, but according to Bottger, the seams have been sewn by machine since he first began working on them in 1937. "Even then, they were already seamed by sewing machines," he said.

But there are still a few sails that are hand sewn. These are mainly for ships that sail on long voyages around the world, where a ship has to put up with much heavier wear and tear.

THERE ARE SOME parts of a sail that must be sewn by hand, however, such as reinforcements where buttonholes for rings and hooks are placed. To sew these parts, the sail makers use what is called a sailmaker's palm — in effect, a glorified thimble.

The palm is a leather handle that fits into the palm of the hand and has a steel plate in it to push the needle against.

"You can work up a sweat just sewing," joked one of the men working on some reinforcements around a buttonhole.

The firm ships most of its sails out of the immediate area.

"Some go to Ohio, some to Kansas, some to Texas," said Bottger. "Lately, we've been doing more business with local dealers though."

When he was younger, Bottger sailed in a world championship on the Great South Bay on the south shore of Long Island. Today, he's cut his sailing down to sailing with customers, however. "It's a little tough now to climb out on to some of those boats," he laughed.

Hospital site inquiry tied to second probe?

by PAT GERLACH
A News Analysis

A federal investigation of Schaumburg officials announced last week may be linked to a probe of former Schaumburg State Bank president Ward Weaver's role in a 1971 zoning deal in which the village obtained a hospital site in return for high density zoning.

On July 31, The Herald carried a story reporting the Weaver investigation based on information obtained from sources in the U. S. Justice Department in Chicago.

The search has concentrated on the methods used to obtain a 20-acre Schaumburg Road site on which Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center plans to build a 180-bed facility.

THE LAND WAS donated to RPSL by J. Emil Anderson and Sons. It is just west of a 57-acre tract on which the developer was granted zoning for 567 apartment units.

Weaver, indicted on federal charges last year, was chairman of a village committee responsible for developing a hospital in Schaumburg.

A. Harold Anderson, of the development firm, is reported to have substantial interest in Schaumburg State Bank where he served as a director from 1966 to last year.

Also connected with the bank, was Paul Brandel, part-owner of the Schaumburg Road land and active as a director of several Chicago-area hospitals. He was reportedly involved in the 1971 zoning transaction.

THOUGH HERALD stories identify Weaver as hospital committee chairman until after June, 1971, he last month denied involvement in the land negotiations and said he had been replaced as head of the committee in 1970.

A Justice Department spokesman recently refused to confirm or deny that an investigation is in progress concerning the land donation and subsequent zoning action.

However, another reliable U.S. government source indicated the government is attempting to learn if any improper influence was exerted by a developer to obtain zoning.

MAYOR ROBERT O. Atcher expresses surprise Friday on learning of the reported investigation.

"I have not been contacted by anyone and I, frankly, know nothing at all about it," Atcher said.

He suggested that investigations of this type usually occur "after someone has done some complaining about things they feel have gone amiss in a community."

Atcher said that such complaints could have been instigated by a "vindictive" loser in a recent election campaign. "But, then again, who knows," he added.

HOWEVER, ATCHER rejected the idea of a federal investigation into Weaver's part in the Anderson zoning case.

"Ward Weaver played no role in this or any other zoning matter," Atcher said. He explained that Weaver had never been chairman of the hospital committee but may have given that impression.

The mayor said that in 1966, Weaver offered to make some contacts concerning establishment of a hospital in the community.

He indentified Mrs. Raymond Kessell, wife of the village trustee, as the only "bona fide chairman" of the comimttee.

"It would be amazing to me if this concerns his (Weaver) because he has never had anything to do with either the hospital or any land zoning in Schaumburg ever," he said.

BOTH RAY KESSELL, a senior trustee, and Herb Aigner, now in his second term, also said they have not been contacted regarding the investigation and have no information on it.

Weaver's trial on charges of conspiring to falsify bank records has been contained until the end of September.

He has pled not guilty to the charges. Erwin D. Oosting, former president of the Bank of Claredon Hills, indicted with Weaver, has pled guilty. Oosting is expected to testify as a government witness at the Weaver trial.

$80,000 in improvements scheduled for Kirk Center

by JILL BETTNER

Improvements totaling $80,000 to the Samuel Kirk Center are planned with the cooperation of the 10 area school districts that contribute to the funding of the school for handicapped children in Palatine.

The Kirk Center, 520 S. Plum Grove Rd., was built by the Northwest Suburban Speical Education Organization (NSSEO), a cooperative established in 1962 to educate handicapped children.

(The cooperative includes Northwest suburban school districts 21, 15, 23, 25, 16, 54, 57, 59, 211 and 214.)

NSSEO is requesting contributions from member school districts to pay for recreation equipment, landscaping and a canopy bus stop shelter. Each district's share of the $80,000 cost, he said, is to be determined by the district's average daily attendance and its assessed valuation.

SOME OF THE SCHOOL systems, including 211, 54 and 59, have agreed to take their share out of operating funds they have on hand.

NSSEO is asking other districts who do not have available funds to levy a special 2-cent tax to collect their share. Under a special house bill, school districts can levy the two-cent tax without conducting a referendum, he said.

"What we're trying to do is complete some of the things that were proposed as part of the original plan for the center, but just couldn't be done at the time because of a lack of funds," he said. "We built the center, but had no money left over for site work and playground equipment."

Wightman said NSSEO hopes to landscape the grounds of the school, install swings, climbing apparatus and a baseball diamond, fencing and construct a canopy to protect students from bad weather as they wait for buses.

Presently, there are no outside recreation facilities at the school, although there is a large indoor multi-purpose room with equipment and space for competitive games.

IN ADDITION TO the funds from districts 211, 54 and 59, Wightman said NSSEO has been assured of monies from districts 26 and 15. Dist. 15, he said, will wait to decide whether or not to levy the two-cent tax until bids are in on the scheduled improvements.

"We don't expect to exceed $80,000," Wightman said, "but right now, all we have are estimates."

Wightman said he is pleased with the school district's response to the NSSEO request for funds.

"The 10 districts are very proud of the Kirk Center," he said. "We have just a marvelous response to our request. Most of the districts have said they've wondered why we waited so long to ask for the money."

Construction of the center began in 1970 and the first phase of the complex that included 23 classrooms, a diagnostic center, health resources center and administration unit was completed in 1971.

AN ADDITIONAL 10 classrooms, a pre-vocational wing, therapy pool, cafeteria and two-room model home were added to the school last year.

The center is a special school for children who are trainable mentally handicapped (a child with a severe learning problem that prevents him from participating in a general education program) and multiple handicapped children (those with a physical and mental handicap). Before the center was built, most of these children were educated in the public schools.

The center is named for Kirk, an outstanding educator, the recipient of eight awards for his work in special education.

A FOUR-TOWN COOPERATIVE computer was installed last week in a Mount Prospect school. Here an electrician makes some final installations in the rented room at Fairview School, 300 N. Fairview Ave. The computer will serve Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Park Ridge, all of which have banded together to form the Northwest Municipal Data System. Each town's water billing will be the first jobs to go on the rented equipment.

Tree recycling plant has merit

The Cook County Forest Preserve District had a good idea with its plan to build a recycling plant near Wheeling to get rid of diseased and otherwise discarded trees.

But now — we are sorry to note — the district is holding back on the plan, with specifications drawn and final bids just about ready for acceptance.

The wrinkle in the blueprint is the result of state legislation — now awaiting Gov. Walker's signature — which would take from the Illinois Pollution Control Board regulation over open burning of trees.

That was the method the district formerly used to get rid of trees — on forest preserve property east of Wheeling — and that's the method to which it might return if the legislation holds up.

Tree-burning by the district went into limbo after 1972. The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency in 1971 banned the burning of trees statewide as a pollution violation, and though the district got a variance from the pollution control board, the method permitted — with a special pollution-reducing incinerator — proved too costly.

Since then, discarded trees were sent to landfill sites, where they take up too much room, so the district germinated the idea of the recycling center.

It would be built on the Wheeling site, and is designed to strip trees of bark and other diseased or unusuable portions, leaving the rest of the wood for recycling into commercial use.

It seemed then — and still seems — a masterful solution. It would get rid of cut trees, avoid a pollution problem, and provide a large quantity of wood product.

There is a possibility the legislation won't hold up. It still needs Walker's signature, and there is a chance that the EPA might set standards to prohibit tree burning in Cook County anyway, given the pollution problems here.

If that happens, the forest preserve district will go ahead with its recycling plant, with completion perhaps in a couple months.

But the district's temptation — if burning is again allowed — is to return to that method as the easier and cheaper method of disposal.

That's a mistake, and the district should get back on the right track it set for itself: the recycling plant.

It makes far more environmental sense, and residents around the burning site — long afflicted with smoke and ash discomfort — certainly would breathe easier for it.

Exchange student 'learning to live'

(Michele Newhouse, a senior at Hersey High School is living with the Schulte family of Menden, Germany for the summer as an Americans Abroad participant in the American Field Service program. A.F.S. is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization which endeavors to bring about understanding among people of many nations through its international scholarship programs at the secondary school level. The following is Michele's comment on her experience.)

I made it! After all my preparing and hoping, I'm in Germany. You would like the family I'm living with. They are very nice people who really care for me as one of their own. Though I don't speak German we can communicate because my two sisters, Beatrix and Barb, speak English as do most of the children and adults here. They also speak French and Latin as well. My whole family helps in our bakery and there I try out my very bad German on the workers. It is great when finally we can understand each other.

Most of the TV shows here are American with the words dubbed in. I sit there and try to lip read. I so wish I could speak German. It would be much better if I could talk to my parents and their friends.

Even the beds here are different. They have hard pillows and super thick quilts, about eight inches. I can now sleep with them but at first I thought it was hard.

Last weekend we had our festival where my mother was queen. It was so nice and different from anything in America. But even though I like it here don't get me wrong. It could never be my home. I love America. I saw a can of cherries in our bakery from America and I was even proud of that.

I have found that though the German people are different because of tradition, which they hold very highly, we are all basically alike in that we hold much love in our hearts and we are willing to share it with others. My experience with American Field Service is fantastic. Not everything is all the time rosy but neither is life. People ask me why I am here and I reply, "I'm learning to live."

Group has insurance for retarded

"People who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones!"

In the Aug. 3 issue of the Herald in "Fence Post letters to the editor," a Mrs. Mead et al stated they did not think insurance was needed to help mongoloids, and then referred everyone to the National Association for Down's Syndromes for answers. This association belongs to the National Association for Retarded Children.

Since the National Association for Retarded Children does have a very good insurance plan for mongoloids and other retardates, therefore Mrs. Mead et al evidently must NOT realize that they are already in favor of an insurance plan for mongoloids and other retardates!

Therefore, if insurance is no good for mongoloids or other retardates, then why does the National Association for Retarded Children provide insurance?

Perhaps Mrs. Mead et al should investigate the services and benefits of the National Association for Retarded Children.

Mickey has bad luck

Our animal-loving Mickey could use a little more help. Two people came to the rescue with 50 pounds of dog food and $5.

Mickey is sick in bed but still is able to do her chores with loving care for her pets, so if anyone could give a little to a bighearted gal it would be wonderful. I know you would feel good for a purpose so worthy.

One thing Mickey also could use is a runnable old car because hers just petered out.

Let's see what many can do for just one poor gal who is down on her luck. If you feel you would like to do something good, call Mickey, 438-8198, and God Bless.

Letters to the fence post

Nixon is a citizen first

I would appreciate your printing this letter in response to the various comments being aired on an early morning talk show by an announcer and some of his listeners concerning Watergate. I choose this avenue to respond because of my belief that I could not debate any issue with this announcer due to his superior education and occupation.

While I have listened to this man for over 20 years, and have agreed with most he has said, on this subject I strongly disagree. I believe he is wrong. As wrong as any person can possibly be. I urge him to open up his objective mind and reevaluate all that he has seen, read and heard. If after this he still insists on maintaining his current stand, then I believe he is just as guilty as all those so-called radicals he screams about on his program of tearing down America and what it stands for.

TO THE BEST OF my recollection, he has said or supported the following statements or implications the last few months:

1. The whole affair should never have been put in the hands of the Senate investigating committee.
2. The committee is made up of a group of incompetents asking stupid questions.
3. The committee is made up of a group of publicity seeking politicians on a witch hunt.
4. The burglary was performed by professionals in a totally unprofessional manner suggesting a counterspy plot.
5. Being a fair man, he refused to condemn anyone until all the facts are in.

In response to these statements or implications, let me steal (excuse me, borrow) a line from old man Scrooge and say, "Humbug, pure Humbug."

He says the affair should never have been taken to the Senate; instead, through proper legal channels. Well, who would he suggest the Democrats should have gone to? Patrick Gray, the then F.B.I. director; Richard Kleindienst, the then attorney general; John Haldeman, the then right arm of the President, or maybe they could have sought legal council from the former Attorney General John Mitchell.

No sir, there wasn't any other way and that fact has become increasingly clear to anyone following the hearings.

IN REFERENCE to the senators' competency relating to questioning, let me suggest that similar to the TV policeman, Columbo, that while it might appear that the questioning was often meaningless and repetitive at times, the desired results are being achieved.

FACT: Mr. Mitchell, our former attorney general, admitted to taking part in discussions of escapades, such as Watergate and worse, and admitted to taking part in the coverup of this crime.

FACT: The President's personal attorney admitted that he solicited and arranged to have funds delivered for burglars.

FACT: Mr. Dean, the President's personal counsel, admitted his part in the coverup and accused other high ranking members of the White House of the same.

FACT: The President's staff maintained an enemies list, and guess what? It didn't include Russia, China or the Black Dragon.

FACT: Add to the above testimony of Magruder, Butterfield, McCord, Porter and Strachn for yet another look at the goings on in our White House.

As to the so-called publicity seeking senators on a witch hunt, I believe this announcer owes these men and his listeners an apology for having made such a statement. He has done both parties an injustice, the senators for questioning their integrity on nothing but feelings and the listeners for stooping to such measures he has often criticized the news media of doing.

THIS BRINGS US to the counterspy theory. I, for one, believe that what he took for unbelievable stupidity was pure and simple contempt: contempt by these people for him, me and everything this country stands for. It would suffice to say these men were as over confident as the iron worker who fell to his death and as the Nixon administration is falling now.

Like the announcer, I agree to refuse to condemn anyone until all the facts are in. However, the course the President has taken has made this impossible.

In conclusion, let me offer these observations:

I, for one, appreciate the public hearings whereby I am allowed to sit in on the investigation and not depend on the often unobjective news media that I too have criticized in the past.

As to the President's use of executive privilege concerning the tapes and various documents pertinent to the investigation of a crime, I see this as yet one more loophole in our laws and a mockery of the term equal justice. For when all is said and done, President Nixon is a citizen first and second our President. As such, he should be subject to the same laws as any other citizen.

I don't care what President Truman did or what precedents have been set, for if President Nixon feels he has the right and obligation to refuse the Senate Committee and Special Prosecutor Cox, then I, as a citizen who voted for him, have the right and obligation to ask him to step down.

No joy in stolen bike

To the two boys who stole our son's bike:

I just had to write you this note to say I hope you can get the same joy from his bike that he got. He has four lawn mowing jobs, trimmings, edging and weeding plus caddying.

He would come home everyday and count his money and save for this special bike and on Fridays go to the bank to put money in his savings account. Then that marvelous day came. He finally had saved enough, and we went to the bike shop.

HAVE YOU TWO boys ever known the self-satisfaction of working and struggling for something you really wanted and been able to say, "I paid for this myself?" He left the bike shop with a big smile, the kind that comes from the fact that you accomplished it yourself.

That's why I really feel you'll never be able to enjoy that bike like he did. You didn't earn it; you stole it. Your conscience couldn't possibly let you enjoy it, unless you don't have one. And that's the saddest thing of all.

Teen movie fee urged

Regarding the movie theatre, I feel that teen-agers (12-16) shouldn't have to pay the maximum admission charge since they can't be admitted into adult films.

I'm not saying that teen-agers should be admitted into adult films. I'm saying that since teens can't get into adult films they shouldn't be regarded as adults, therefore, they shouldn't have to pay adult fees.

I feel that there should be a student fee, which is between children and adult fee.

Gratitude expressed

If it is acceptable, I would appreciate your printing the following letter of gratitude to help me say "thanks" to a community of people. Because of being heavily medicated, faces and names elude me, events are clouded, but I do know how I feel about the help and assistance extended during a difficult time.

I would like to express my deep appreciation for the thoughtfulness shown to me and my family during a recent crisis.

My sincere gratitude to the whole staff at Northwest Community Hospital for their professional tender loving care.

Relatives, friends, old and new, neighbors and strangers, who reached out and showed their support, shared themselves and offered assistance was a tremendous experience of true Christian love.

Thank you all; each and every one will be remembered in a special way.

And, last but not least, thank you, dear children, for sharing your strength, hope and love with me.

Handicapped coed seeks aide

I would like to enlist your assistance in helping me with a vital problem. I will be a junior at Southern Illinois University this fall; that is, I will be a junior there provided I can find a willing roommate.

My problem is that I have a severe muscular weakness called Amyotonia. As a result, I am confined to an electrically operated wheelchair and require assistance in my daily routine. I am looking for a college rommate who will be both willing and able to help me.

THE REMUNERATION for this assistance is $6 a day. Total remuneration for the fall, winter and spring quarters is $1,400.

I will very much appreciate your publicizing my problem and my need for assistance. Anyone interested in this opportunity for employment may contact me at 269 First St., Gurnee, Ill. 60031, or they may call me at Area Code 312-336-5594.

I am employed as a summer aide at the Navy Electronics Supply Office, Great Lakes, Illinois. I will leave here on August 17 and will remain at home, hopefully until it is time to return to college. I certainly will appreciate your assistance in helping me find a roommate so that I can continue my education at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

Parent responds

Backs plan for housing mongoloids

In taking exception to Joann Van Wye's article of July 23, a group of parents stated they question the necessity of raising funds to build a pilot facility for the care and teaching of mongoloids.

Although I am aware of House Bills 2783, 4156 and 2671, I as a parent do not want my mongoloid child to become a ward of the state after we are deceased any more than I would want my normal children to become wards of the state. I would like to see my son in a home such as the National Mongoloid Council has in mind, where the environment and needs are best suited for the mongoloid child.

AS FOR AN insurance policy, I can see nothing wrong with parents taking out a policy to insure their child's future.

One of the first things my husband did when our mongoloid child was born was to take out a policy on his (my husband's) life so our son would be assured of an income after his death.

I do not believe this has jeopardized the rest of the retardates in the State of Illinois from receiving benefits from the state any more than my husband working for a living would jeopardize those people who are unable to work from receiving state aid.

Standing by product

Regarding Amy Hefferle's letter of July 27: It's sure nice to know someone can give Campanelli a pat on the back. Maybe they can fix small repairs when you buy a new home of theirs, but they won't stand behind them when they get older.

One year ago we bought a Campy home, which at that time was three years old. Since that time we've been trying to get something done about our cedar siding, which is warping and peeling off. We were told by Campanelli's staff that a bad shipment was received but nothing can be done because we are second owners.

What we can't figure out is why a builder of this size won't stand behind the product he uses on his homes?

Business Today

by DEAN C. MILLER

NEW YORK — Budgeting is an economic must for nations, businesses and individuals, so teaching a child how to manage money should be done as early as possible.

Since spending habits are acquired at an early age, that's when parents should start the learning process.

Children first notice money when they visit stores with parents or friends. Shopping trips with preschoolers might be the best time to start the learning process, according to "Consumer Views," a First National City Bank of New York publication which has reviewed the question. "Give your toddler or 5-year-old some change and let him pay for his own crayons," the bank suggests.

ONCE THE child becomes aware of numbers let him decide whether he wants to spend his coin on one soda or a pack of gum. Under five or six, according to the experts, children still are too young for a weekly allowance. They don't have a sense of "tomorrow" a necessary ingredient in any such planning.

At the start, keep the child's budget responsibilities simple. An allowance for a child under eight or nine should be only enough to buy ice cream, inexpensive toys and other small things that make him happy.

At 9 or 10, the allowance can cover more needs. Here's when the "heart to heart" talks begin. Sit down with him and list his needs and fancied needs — lunch, carfare, movies, magazines. Along about that time it also might be wise to help the child set up a record of what he spends for a period of two weeks or so.

Experts say an allowance should be kept on a business basis. Forget emotionalism or forget the experiment. If the allowance is designed to teach the child to handle money it should be a regular part of his life. Not a carrot dangled before his nose.

THERE'S NOTHING wrong with making junior stay home from a movie because he refused to clean up his room. But disciplinary action should come after the allowance is handed over, not tied in with it through withholding.

If an older child decides to get an outside job it may in many instances be unwise to discontinue or reduce the allowance. That, in effect, is penalizing this initiative. Talk it over and come to some understanding. A savings account, or whatever.

And there will be times when the child, like the parent, comes up flat broke. Should you bail him out? Yes, say the experts. But make it in the form of an advance. That teaches him about borrowing and buying on credit . . . and paying back.

Farm income to hit new high: bank

Net farm income for 1973 should exceed previous records by a wide margin, says the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its monthly review, Business Conditions.

Based on first-half figures, U.S. agriculture has experienced the most lucrative period in history, and expenses — while rising rapidly through the period — failed to erode the increase in revenues.

Demand for agricultural products rose sharply during the first half due to vigorous domestic economic growth and strong foreign demand. The U.S. economy grew at one of the fastest rates in recent history, and much of the increase in consumer spending was for food. Food prices averaged nearly 12 per cent above year-earlier levels during the first half, and it now appears that food prices for 1973 as a whole may average more than 12 per cent above 1972, the largest gain in 26 years, says the bank.

FOREIGN DEMAND has been boosted by the dollar devaluation and reduced supplies in other exporting countries. The value of U.S. agricultural exports in fiscal 1973 exceed $12 billion, compared to $8 billion in fiscal 1972.

Concern over tight food supplies and rapidly rising food prices led to a number of governmental actions that affected the agricultural sector in 1973. Among these were the imposition of wholesale and retail ceilings on meat prices in late March, the food price freeze of mid-June, and intensified export controls — including instituting a licensing system after a short-lived embargo — on certain agricultural commodities.

Other actions included a relaxation of import quotas on meat and some dairy products, the depletion of government-owned "surpluses," and an unprecedented release in set-aside crop acreage. This move together with other revisions in 1973 farm commodity programs will reduce government payments to farmers by $1 billion from the 1972 total of $4 billion.

THE AGRICULTURAL outlook for the balance of 1973 is fraught with uncertainties, says the bank. The duration of export controls and the possibility of new ones, the extent to which production has been curtailed due to price controls, and the relaxation of controls under Phase IV all will have an impact. The levels of worldwide demand for and supplies of agricultural products further cloud the picture.

Current estimates indicate 6 and 24 per cent larger harvests for corn and soybeans, respectively. Sharply lower carryover stocks, however, mean total corn supplies may fall short of the year-earlier level, and soybean supplies would be up 18 per cent. Although foreign demand is expected to remain strong, domestic demand for grains, soybeans, and soybean products may ease in the second half.

The spring pig crop fell 2 per cent below the year-earlier level — in sharp contrast to an earlier-anticipated 5 per cent increase — portending some tightness in the second half. Beef supplies, too, are likely to remain below year-ago levels in the second half, according to the bank. In light of tight supplies, strong consumer demand, and "pass-throughs" permitted under Phase IV, red meat prices will rise in the second half.

Managing your family's money

Financial climate created by parents affects children

by MERLE E. DOWD

Your "dollar personality" reflects your childhood and the money attitudes of your parents. If you're unhappy about your spending performance or at odds with your spouse over money matters, look around. How are your money handling habits affecting your children? Is the financial climate in your house likely to develop the money management skills your children will need to cope with our money-oriented world?

Many adults in their 50s and late 40s carry mental scars from the "great depression" of the 30s. Younger parents may have adopted their parents' approach to handling money or rejected it and developed their own.

For example, a woman who grew up in a family where money was tight, remembers her parents fighting constantly — too little money and too many places for it to go. She reacts by ignoring income limits and running deeply into debt "because I refuse to haggle over every penny." Another woman remembering a similar family atmosphere may plan her spending more carefully to avoid similar arguments.

TODAY MAY be too late for parents to shake the shackles of money habits ingrained since childhood. But, you can tailor the financial climate in your home to help your children develop a rational approach to the handling of their money. Schools attempt to teach money management too late. Children have already adopted the methods or lack of planning practiced by their parents long before they reach high school.

Your feelings about money affect your children — rightly or wrongly. And, simply doling out an allowance doesn't let you off the hook. Children react to money according to what they see and feel in your home — not what you tell them. You can help develop good money habits in your children by following all or some of these suggestions:

- Allow your children to realize early that money is limited. Few families have access to all the money they think they "need." Children can learn this fact of life by permitting them to do without things and services beyond the limits of established allowances. When extra money always appears for some "special need," children fail to appreciate limits. They figure if the need is great enough, money will drop from some mysterious source.
- Help your children learn to make decisions on whether to spend allowances regularly or to save for important purchases later. Introduce them to credit by lending them cash for big purchases. But, insist on repayment, so the child understands the difference between a true loan and an extra handout. Help your children earn their own good credit rating within the home.
- Ask your children to develop their own spending plan and learn to live by it. As a counselor for the Scout merit badge in personal management, I have been encouraged by how quickly boys learn about money. After a 3-month accounting for all income and spending, they project their own needs for a year ahead. Surprisingly realistic plans emerge. The important elements are — complete recording of all income whether by allowance, gifts, or earnings and a written plan for spending or saving the total.
- When children's needs exceed their income, permit them the opportunity to earn more by babysitting, caring for lawns, or other jobs most youngsters can find sufficiently motivating. Children need to understand the relationship between effort and income early. When youngsters must earn cash to reach their own goals, they develop a healthy respect for the work ethic.
- Demonstrate effective money handling by developing your own spending plan in writing to reflect needs of all the family. Learning to choose effectively can be one of the most valuable lessons you can impart to children learning about managing money.

Have a tender, loving talk with your favorite plant

Do not become overly concerned if you happen to encounter a man or woman — watering can in hand — carrying on an animated conversation with their flower or vegetable gardens.

"They are simply talking them into growth," according to a report by the research department of Estech, Inc., the chemicals and industrial products division of Esmark, Inc., a Chicago-based diversified international industrial complex.

"Perhaps they took a cue from a Broadway musical's hit song, 'I Talk to the Trees,' or maybe a hint from their children, who are fast becoming budding young horticulturists. Whatever — they are rapidly becoming part of the cult which believes in tender, loving talk-sessions with plant life," Estech says.

Far be it from anyone to imply that the plants actually "listen" or indeed answer. But the fact remains that special care is producing remarkable garden results.

"Good fertilizers, ample watering, proper sunlight or shade — as the case may be — have always been known factors in achieving soil fertility. The new dimension is happy talk," the report states.

Youth is in the vanguard advocating a wide variety of plant-oriented conversation. High Schools, offering science classes in plant life, have conducted studies which involve the personal approach to gardens.

"Plant conversation turned my children on," says one new afficionado of plant dialogues. "I decided to give it a try and found it a justifiable experience. My garden has just flourished as a result."

Estech researchers certainly believe in giving plants adequate food, air and sunshine.

"But soothing conversation certainly has proved to be that truly extra additive for the growing plant," the report concludes.

Direct from Paris

The newest in hair styling

RECENTLY RETURNED from the L'Oreal workshop in Paris, Cal Denoux, owner of Chez Denoux in Towne Square Shopping Center, Schaumburg, uses the blow-dry technique for a short coiffure.

The newest Paris hair styles have been flown back to the Northwest suburbs via Mr. and Mrs. Cal Denoux, owners of the Chez Denoux Beauty Salon in Town Square Shopping Center in Schaumburg.

Cal and Barbara recently attended the L'Oreal seminar on hair styling, featuring Alexandre, the "King of Hair."

Alexandre, as prominent as Vidal Sassoon in hair care, coiffures such renowned tresses as those of Elizabeth Taylor, Grace Kelly and Jackie Onassis. Bianca, the lanky lithe cover girl, seen on the covers of top fashion magazines, is his model as he travels about sharing his art for hair styling with the rest of the world.

A week of lectures, workshops and fashion shows brought 175 beauticians from the United States up to date on the latest techniques and styles originating from the "fashion capital of the world."

DENOUX REPORTS that "short hair is here to stay and besides the page boy, short hair is the 'in' style in Paris."

"The scissor cut, rather than the razor, is the way to cut hair now because it has been found that it doesn't split the ends," said Denoux.

New in hair coloring is hair painting, a process where strands of hair are bleached for a sun struck look. Less drastic than the old streaking method, hair painting leaves a soft glow that "only your hairdresser will know for sure."

The redhead is in for fall as is anything else natural. Hair pieces, barrettes and combs, added to the short cut, give elegance for evening and bridal wear.

A tour through the L'Oreal plant gave Cal and Barbara an idea of what actually goes into hair care products.

IN THE PURPLE and pink motif of their salon in Schaumburg, Mr. and Mrs. Denoux put their learning into practice. Cal, trained in the New Orleans area and with 15 years in the hair styling business, comes from a family background of French hairdressers. His wife, Barbara, trained at Ippolitos in Chicago.

Hoping to make the trip to Paris a yearly outing, Cal and Barbara bring their newly-learned techniques back to their shop and the eight other beauticians employed there. "They're all trained in the latest techniques," said Cal.

Working on the premise that "all women are beautiful," Alexandre told the beauticians their customers deserve their undivided attention and their hair styles, make-up and fashions should be chosen for one purpose, to make each female a beauty.

SHORT HAIR is the thing. Mrs. Cal Denoux uses a curling iron to get just a hint of curl in one of the popular Paris hair styles for fall '73.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

For publicity chairmen

Workshop a capsule course

"A capsule course in journalism and public relations, your publicity workshop was delightful, informative and interesting."

"A clever idea beautifully carried out."

So read just two of the scores of letters received by the Heralds following last year's publicity workshops. Because of the enthusiastic response to the workshops in the past years and because Paddock Publications wishes to help every woman assigned the job of publicity chairman, the newspaper chain will sponsor its 10th annual workshops early in September.

The first workshop is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 6, at the Plum Grove Club, Plum Grove Estates, Palatine. The second will be held Friday, Sept. 7, at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

It is expected that not only Des Plaines women, but also Mount Prospect women and others living near the "Y" will be attending the Friday session. Others will probably find it more convenient to attend the Thursday session in Palatine; however, the women may attend whichever session is more convenient.

BOTH WORKSHOPS will be held from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and will include a coffee and roll break in midmorning.

Invited to participate in the workshops are the presidents and publicity chairmen of all social and service clubs, community and church groups, women's organizations and all other clubs in which membership is predominantly women and whose news appears exclusively in the women's pages.

PTAs and other groups whose news does not appear in the women's pages of the Herald are not specifically invited as the workshop coverage will not completely fill their needs.

The sessions are designed to help publicity chairmen write releases of interest to all readers and thereby perform a greater service to their clubs. A helpful pamphlet will be given to those in attendance, and it is expected that there will be time for a question and answer period.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST will be the slide presentation during the session on photo coverage.

Reservations are requested and may be made by calling Paddock Publications at 394-2300, Extension 251, or Karen Thompson at the Des Plaines office, 297-6633.

Yoga has got her down

I am into yoga. I have been for sometime now. That may come as a surprise since I haven't reported typing with my knuckles from under the backs of my knees or making beds in a frozen lotus position.

I don't want to mislead anybody. Limber, I am not. Furthermore I was a dancing school drop-out — by teacher's choice. However, I enjoy practicing yoga, finding the spiritual aspects interesting and the physical positions relaxing.

When I began this venture over a year ago, I wasn't sure how I was going to succeed because I completely broke up during the first class when the instructor told us to relax our right eyebrows. Since then I've decided it is worth a serious effort to learn how to do just that kind of thing.

HOWEVER, THE effort has taken a broader scope than I first expected. It hasn't been due to protesting muscles or prejudice to Western philosophies, but rather to our dog.

The conflict arises when I get into any yoga position that brings my head near the floor. The dog is convinced that the floor is her territory, and anyone on it must have come to play. Since most yoga positions — particularly the rest and relaxation ones — take me to ground level, this has been a serious problem. And in no book that I have read on yoga can I find a section on how to stand on one's head while a friendly basset hound is licking one's face.

I have tried shutting the dog in another room only to have my alpha waves disturbed by her baying. I have tried sneaking off to another part of the house while the dog is asleep, but she invariably finds me just as I am resting between asanas. She then plops down beside me, flopping one of her ears over my eyes. Sometimes she prefers to investigate my bare toes with her cold nose. At any rate, it is an impossible situation.

AS I EXPLAINED this to a friend who is a real yogi, and the one who got me interested in yoga, she seemed to think that my inability to escape from the dog was a sign of my success in yoga. Yoga, she pointed out, is supposed to bring one in closer communion with nature.

That the dog may be responding to my newly discovered oneness with all things may be true. However, it is a heck of a way to try to relax!

BUCKETS 'N BRANCHES are a few of the boutique items to be sold Saturday during the Long Grove Family Guidance antique show. Nancy Whitney and Joan Duncan, members of the group underwriting family counseling in the area, are helping stock an accent shop, a feature of the show. Antiques will be shown by 34 dealers from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in Kildeer School, Old McHenry Road. Other features are a country bakery and a $2 luncheon. Tickets are $1.50 adults, 50 cents children; if purchased in advance adults are $1.25 by calling 438-7086.

Fashion
by Karen

I'm becoming a staunch believer in saving every dress, coat, accessory and shoe I've ever purchased because it seems that eventually, they all come back.

Being a reasonably organized person, I've been prone to send those rarely worn has-beens to the Salvation Army or even the garbage shoot, but no more.

Save, ladies, because those clutch bags we tossed out years ago and the tiny hats with veils, among a throng of other styles from yesteryear, are beginning to take to the streets.

With the return this season to the classic tailored look, emphasis has been put on appropriate accessories, also with the "neatening up" approach in mind.

In keeping with the look, fashion experts predict the revival of the underarm clutch bag. Casual, yet chic, the new purses are flat and neat with hidden side gussets which expand enough to hold the paraphernalia a busy woman collects from day to day.

THE NEW BAGS come in such styles as leather portfolios, clutches, briefcases and flat tote bags, but since women seem to be hung up on the shoulder strap, most of the bags have detachable straps that can simply be tucked inside or snapped off altogether. Thus we have the best of both worlds: a slick, streamlined shoulderbag that converts easily into an elegant clutch.

A spot check at Randhurst Shopping Center in Mount Prospect revealed that not too many of the new clutch bags are out on the counters yet, but buyers are planning for their arrival. Wieboldt's had several styles. The clerk noted that "mostly the older women were buying the clutch bag." Maybe they're more used to the underarm style bag. "They don't like to dig into those long shoulderstrap bags." she added.

The return of the hat has the millinery industry in a state of euphoria. Not since the World War II era, when defense jobs made feminine flippery seem foolish, has the future looked so good. Milliners expect a 20 per cent increase over last year's $14 million sales.

THE CLUTCH BAG is teamed up with a velvet close-to-the-head hat with a partial brim for the classic contemporary look for fall '73.

STORES IN THE area are expanding their hat departments in anticipation of the hat-buying spree.

If you're a sweater girl, the sweater knit hat will suit you fine. If fur is your fancy, try the new colors — faded jean blue, olive green or burgundy red. And if you're really daring, or have a remnant of your past in the attic try the little prewar veiled numbers.

Brimmed hats, turbans, flapper revivals of the 1920 era, oversized tam-o-shanters are just a few of the styles and angora, felt, jersey and lame only a scrap of the fabric choices.

With the natural, shaped, sweatered, layered and wrapped looks for fall, try scouting in your trunks and maybe you'll find hidden and forgotten fashion values. They all come back.

Welcome Wagon coffee Aug. 22

Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club invites all new women residents to a hospitality coffee at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Pine Street entrance, Mount Prospect, Wednesday, Aug. 22, at 9:30 a.m.

Women who have lived in Mount Prospect less than 24 months, as well as present club members, are welcome. Baby-sitting service will be provided.

Activities for the coming year will be discussed during the coffee.

Further information is available from Mrs. William Stanley, 253-6862, Mrs. Jon Dokmo, 956-0814, or Mrs. Louis Hersh, 398-1266.

Club members are reminded to make reservations for the Aug. 25 Maywood Park Race Track party by Aug. 17.

Stuffed hangers

Instructions for making hangers that will not cause shoulder lines to form in garments and will not allow wide-necked items to slip off are as follows: 1) Wrap plastic bags around a wire coat hanger until the surface is smooth, soft and plump. 2) Lay the stuffed hanger on a piece of folded washable material and cut around it, leaving 1½ inches for a seam. 3) Right sides together, sew the top shoulders, turn and insert the stuffed hanger. 4) Overlap material on the bottom and sew by hand. Hangers such as these are particularly good for hanging items to dry or hanging those removed from a dryer that are damp-dry.

Birth notes

They're floating on cloud nine

Kathryn Kuntz

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kuntz of Mount Prospect recently hosted an engagement party for their daughter, Kathryn Ann, and David Edward Kuehl, son of the Edward Kuehls of Chesterton, Ind. The young couple have not yet set their wedding date.

Both are seniors at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind. The bride-to-be is affiliated with Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority and her fiance with Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Kathryn is a '70 graduate of Hersey High School.

Lynn Forti

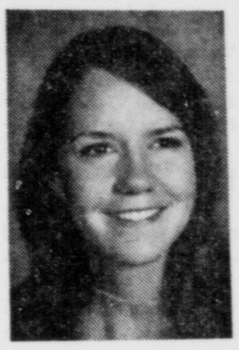
The engagement of a Hoffman Estates couple is announced by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Forti. Their daughter, Lynn Ann, is betrothed to R. Craig Fuhs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fuhs, and plans are for a July 6, wedding.

Both are '72 graduates of Conant High School. Lynn attended Harper College, where she graduated in the licensed practical nursing program, and is working at Northwest Community Hospital. Her fiance attended Iowa State University and is employed by Denny's Restaurant in Hoffman Estates.

Cristine Gehrig

An early fall wedding is planned by an Arlington Heights couple, Cristine Gehrig and Guy M. Karm. Their engagement and forthcoming marriage are announced by Cristine's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Gehrig.

Guy, son of the William A. Kellys, is a member of the Arlington Heights Police Department, and Cristine works for Laseke Disposal Co., Arlington. Both graduated from Arlington High School. The bride-to-be then attended Western Illinois University and Guy went to the University of Illinois.



Karen Powles

Karen Lynn Powles' engagement to Cpl. Kenneth E. Maves is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Powles, 643 S. Quentin Road, Palatine. The couple plan a November wedding.

Kenneth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Mayes Jr. of Rome, Ga. He graduated from Illinois Wesleyan University, Bloomington, and is completing duty in the U.S. Marine Corps at Great Lakes, Ill.

A graduate of Fremd High School and Illinois Wesleyan, Karen is a registered nurse at St. Therese Hospital, Waukegan.

Mass, family party mark 60 years of marriage

Ernest and Teresa Marotte of Wheeling celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Saturday and are already looking forward to the next milestone. They have good reason. Mr. Marotte's parents reached their 64th and had a memorable party, so why not Ernest and Teresa?

The anniversary pair and family were together all day Saturday, the actual date of the anniversary. A High Mass in Thanksgiving was celebrated that morning in St. Joseph the Worker Catholic Church, Wheeling. Then the entire family gathered again at son Ray Marotte's home in Grayslake for a catered dinner and day of reminiscing.

Ernest and Teresa were married Aug. 11, 1913 in West Springfield, Mass. An agent for John Hancock Life Insurance Co., Ernest later came to the midwest to open the area for John Hancock. He and his wife first lived in Des Moines and then in Chicago, where he was the district manager for 28 years.

AFTER AN illness forced his retirement in 1951, they moved to Miami, Fla., for eight years but then returned to the midwest to be near their children. Wheeling has been "home" to them for the past 13 years.

The couple has three sons, Ernest of Hot Springs, Ark., Ralph of Palatine and

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Marotte

Ray of Grayslake. They have seven grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Still an active man, Mr. Marotte has a small mail order business he operates from home. It offers promotional aids for life insurance salesmen.

"I like to have something to look forward to each morning besides just another day," he professes. "The mail keeps me busy, and I still have something to contribute to the insurance field."

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Like you, I've had a radical mastectomy. We were going to a party out in the country and I forgot to protect my arm against sunburn and let it hang out on the side of the car all the way.

When we arrived, my arm was quite red and starting to swell and I was almost beside myself. My smart hostess came to the rescue. She soaked a bath towel in cold water, wrapped it around my arm and then covered it with a plastic film, the kind that sticks to itself.

The towel stayed cold and took the heat out of the arm, and the film kept the water from leaking over everything. — R.T.W.

There's a moral here for all those who have gone through this operation: The sun is as much an enemy as cuts, bruises and so forth.

Dear Dorothy: My best friend was helping me set the table for a dinner party. I was embarrassed at how crooked the line down the center of the cloth was. She got out the steam iron and pressed it right on the table (the pad was underneath). At her urging, I now iron the middle of the cloth quickly, then fold the cloth lengthwise and iron down both sides. —Kitty Ohrbach.

Gowns handmade for wedding

The bride's sister, Donna Oltz, was probably the busiest member of the Daniel Oltz family of Elk Grove Village in preparing for the wedding of Marybeth Oltz and Christopher W. Saigh of Mount Prospect. Donna made Marybeth's gown and all the ensembles of her attendants for the June 30 rites.

Marybeth and Christopher, son of the Donald Saighs, were married in an afternoon service in Queen of the Rosary Church, Elk Grove, with five attendants at their sides.

Donna was the bride's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Marilyn Olt, the groom's sister, Katy Saigh; and Jeanette Renaldi, the bride's cousin from Chicago. Deneen Oltz was her sister's junior bridesmaid.

THE BRIDE AND groom each had two brothers in the wedding party. Bob Saigh was best man; Bill Saigh and Dennis and Duane Oltz were groomsmen along with John Cantieri of Mount Prospect.

After the wedding the Oltz family hosted a champagne reception at their home and then a dinner for 200 guests at Villa De Domenico in Wood Dale.

The newlyweds are living in Arlington Heights since returning from a week in Jamaica. Marybeth works for General Telephone Directory in Des Plaines and the groom for IBM. He is a data systems field engineer in the Chicago area.

Share anniversary date with parents

Now there are two wedding anniversaries to celebrate July 21 in the Lansing J. Brown family of Arlington Heights.

On that date last month, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, of 610 S. Yale Ave., marked their 27th anniversary by witnessing the marriage of their son, Lansing J. Brown Jr. He and Suzanne Marie Sachs exchanged vows in Raymond, Iowa, the bride's hometown.

And because the wedding was just three days after the 20th anniversary of Suzanne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Sachs, there were congratulations being offered all day to the three couples.

Suzanne and Lansing were married in an 11 a.m. double ring service in St. Joseph's Church. Afterwards 175 guests were invited to a luncheon reception at the Legion Hall nearby in Gilbertville. The wedding cake for the party was baked by the bride's grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing J. Brown Jr.

SUZANNE WAS attended by her sister, Mary Kaye, as maid of honor and another sister, Kath, as bridesmaid. Their young sister, Lori, 9, was flower girl.

The groom's two brothers attended him, Larry as best man and Terry as groomsman. Robert Lyon of LaCrosse, Wis., and Louis Haggerty, Waterloo, Iowa, seated the guests and Tim Russell, 5, of Raymond was ring bearer. Tim is a cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, Suzanne wore a white sata peau Empire gown appliqued with Venise lace. It was designed with high neck, long sleeves and a chapel train. A fingertip veil and Venise lace cap completed the bride's attire, along with a bouquet of yellow roses, yellow and white daisies and baby's breath.

THE ATTENDANTS wore green and white plaid dresses and white crocheted hats. They carried white daisies and baby's breath except for the flower girl who carried white and yellow daisies in a basket.

After a week's honeymoon in the Bahamas, the bride and groom are making their home in Waterloo where the groom is a divisional manager for Sears. Suzanne attends Hawkeye Institute of Technology, Waterloo, and works part time for J. C. Penney's.

The groom graduated from Arlington High School and the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

AAUW summer coffee Tuesday

The final membership coffee of the summer for Arlington Heights Branch of the American Association of University Women is Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Grundberg, 505 Mayfair Road, Arlington Heights.

Study group representatives and members of the board will be present to acquaint prospective members with the branch's activities and programs for the year.

Membership is open to any graduate of an accredited college or university registered with the association office in Washington, D.C.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS AAUW is open to residents of Arlington, Barrington, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Lake Zurich, Long Grove, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Wheeling.

Anyone interested in attending the coffee may contact Mrs. Bogen, membership chairman, 358-7374, or Mrs. D. Diersen, orientation chairman, 392-5911.

A PRECIOUS SILVER bowl will make the rounds this year of Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta. It is the award given the "outstanding alumnae association" at the sorority's recent national convention in Roanoke, Va. Mrs. Robert Drugan, left, was the local delegate accepting the honor. Mrs. Donald Sinn is the Chapter president.

Local Kappa Delta alumnae earn 'outstanding' award

Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Association of Kappa Delta Sorority has been named "outstanding alumnae association" for the Diamond Anniversary year.

The honor was bestowed at the recent national convention held in Roanoke, Va. It was near there, at Longwood College, Farmville, that Kappa Delta was founded 75 years ago.

Receiving the award, an engraved silver bowl, was the alumnae's convention delegate, Mrs. Robert Drugan of Arlington Heights.

The chapter earned the "outstanding" title for excellence in all areas of participation in the past two years. That includes collegiate assistance, membership in Northwest Suburban Panhellenic and community and national philanthropic contributions.

THE GROUP raised $3,400 this past two years in various projects, such as market research, bridge and bridge luncheons, Christmas boutiques, Dominick days, Friendship Basket and benefit dinner dances.

At the collegiate level, northwest suburban alumnae supports the Kappa Delta chapter at Northern Illinois University and also contribute financially through magazine sales to the KD National House building fund.

Locally, the women give volunteer hours and monetary contributions to Santa Teresita Mission, Northwest Suburban Aid to the Retarded, Community Action Plan in Mount Prospect, Maryville Academy, Countryside Center for the Retarded, and Northwest Community Hospital. In addition they have "adopted" two residents of the Lutheran Home for the Aged, remembering them with visits, cards, baked goods and other gifts.

The national philanthropy of KD is the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond,Va. Local alumnae support that institution both financially and with gifts and tray favors for the patients.

Religion Today... by Lester Kinsolving

'Groovy gospel' shows—what's next?

As if by fate (or, more appropriately, as if by epidemic) Hollywood has released not one, but two groovy gospels in the same summer: "Godspell" and "Jesus Christ, Superstar."

The former, "Godspell," according to America magazine's film critic Richard Blake, has:

"The veneer of religiosity" of "a youth-cult Christ and his swinging disciples."

Moreover: "This musical gospel is not Christ, but a nostalgic escape into lost childhood . . . As for the resurrection, there is none . . . According to this gospel of today, the memory of a dead Christ lives on only in the childlike spirit of his followers."

"SUPERSTAR" is a similarly tasteless travesty, which begs the question as to when the movie moguls will be fair enough to give Christianity a break by leaving Jesus alone. They might, in fairness, consider producing such epics as "Mohammed The Swinger," or "Gautama Buddha Deserts His Wife and Children For A Bo Tree," — which productions should market well in Saudi Arabia and Ceylon.

Hollywood's hippie Christ, however perverse, appears the lesser of two contemporary evils. The other: The current plethora of books, articles and even bumper stickers ("Jesus; The Greatest Revolutionary In History") which attempt to reintroduce the Prince of Peace as the Pancho Villa of Palestine.

Rev. Lester Kinsolving

For example, an Episcopal attorney named William Stringfellow has written:

"I say that Jesus was, according to the testimonies of the Gospels a criminal . . . the most dangerous and reprehensible sort of criminal . . . so far as the established authorities and, in the end, so far as the people were concerned, the most loathsome of criminals . . . Never has a man been apprehended, accused, tried, convicted, sentenced and executed of whom it may be more certainly avowed: He was guilty."

(This extremist nonsense was published by a magazine called Christianity and Crisis, originally founded by famed theologian Rheinhold Niebuhr. Of late, it has become so far-left and so pro-Arab and anti-Israel, that Niebuhr's widow Ursala recently asked that her husband's name be removed from the masthead.)

A REFRESHING antidote to this Jesus As Gunslinger guerilla theater has been provided by Professor John T. Pawlikowski of Chicago's Catholic Theological Union. Writing in Christian Century magazine, Dr. Pawlikowski notes:

• Taht the theory of a Gen. Jesus leading an armed insurrection in Jerusalem is hardly new — having been advanced by an Austrian scholar named Eisler, 44 years ago.

• That while Jesus may well have been mistakenly executed by the Romans as a supposed revolutionary, Jesus was dedicated not to the hopelessly impractical task of rebelling against Rome, but to reforming Rome's subordinate authority,the Temple priesthood of the Sadducees ("A total religio-political system which oppressed the common man.")

• That Jesus can hardly be imagined (and quite definitely not proven) as among the violent revolutionaries called Zealots, who, "Were slitting (Roman) throats in the alleys of Jerusalem as the forerunners of a new humane society."

Prof. Pawlikowski's contentions appear plausible in view of the fact that the only violence ever attributed to Jesus (which is mentioned in all four of the Gospels) was beating (not killing) of Sadducean Temple money changers — not Roman soldiers.

Moreover, Jesus does not appear to be remembered so much for wielding a whip as in being nailed to a cross. Here most of his followers believe that he won an eternal battle over the fear of death, rather than trying simply to win an ephemeral victory over one of the many (and comparatively humane) conquering armies who occupied the Holy Land.

Oswald: "Sonny Moyse was similar to us in that when he got married he got the better of the deal. Jackie, his wife, played fairly good bridge, but Sonny wrote many articles describing some outrageous play by Jackie."

Jim: "Jackie probably would have killed him if it weren't for the fact that her outrageous plays always worked."

Oswald: "The correct play of today's slam is for South to win the heart lead, draw trumps and go after diamonds. Assuming the suit breaks 4-2, South makes all the tricks."

Jim: "Sonny's story was that he was called to the phone as the hand was being dealt and got back to find that Jackie had picked up his hand and bid to six spades. He wanted to play but the opponents insisted that since Jackie had bid it she had to play it."

Oswald: "Jackie won the heart lead and led a low heart at trick two. The best West could do was to ruff with the three-spot. Jackie overruffed with the five, drew trumps and had 12 tricks in spite of the bad diamond break. Her play only worked because East held the 9-8-6 of spades, but it worked, which is what counts when the score is added up."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

The Doctor Says...by Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Low-carbohydrate diets based on faulty history

Dear Dr. Lamb — I purchased Dr. Robert C. Atkins' book, "Diet Revolution" and am about to start on his prescribed diet. I now recall a Dr. Taller who, a few years ago, was known for his high-fat diet. He had trouble with the American Medical Association, or else he was arrested. I am vague as to what happened, but I know his diet was proven dangerous. If you are familiar with Dr. Taller's diet, I would appreciate your telling me the similarity between his and Dr. Atkins' diet.

Dear Reader — Yes, I am familiar with both diets, and have read both books. They are both low carbohydrate diets. Dr. Atkins' diet differs in that he recommends eliminating all carbohydrates to a point that a chemical imbalance called ketosis persists.

Dr. Taller in his book, "Calories Don't Count," recommended limiting the carbohydrates severely, but not complete elimination at the beginning of the diet. Also, Dr. Taller recommended large amounts of safflower oil. I believe you are correct that he ran into some legal difficulties, apart from the American Medical Association's opinion of his diet.

You can lose weight on these diets because you usually end up eating far fewer calories. The appetite disappears because of the chemical imbalance. In fact, some people feel slightly nauseated because of the type of food they must eat, and the sharp limitation of carbohydrates in the diet. Losing weight alone isn't necessarily an outstanding goal.

It's desirable to lose weight, but it should not be lost at the expense of the body's general health. You can lose weight from tuberculosis and cancer too, but that is not necessarily a very good way to go about it.

THE KETOSIS you develop on the Atkins diet is the same chemical imbalance an untreated severe diabetic develops. As it progresses in the diabetic it can produce diabetic coma.

I notice some very distinct similarities between Dr. Taller's book and Dr. Atkins' book. Both follow the premise that man was originally a hunter and lived on meats and animal food, without any appreciable quantities of carbohydrates.

This does not square with known historical facts of man's origins. Even prehistoric man had grinding-type teeth characteristic of vegetarians, as opposed to carnivores who had overriding canine teeth. Related animals or primates, such as the apes are especially vegetarians.

Early man had available to him nuts, fruits, even honey from wild bees, and an infinite variety of different kinds of vegetables. Well-known naturalists consider that early man, particularly those from warm and jungle-type climates, received a major portion of his food from carbohydrate sources.

Early cave drawings of the most primitive type demonstrate acquiring honey from wild bees, and the northern European primitive men mixed honey with fruit juices into a form of mead. Both books then erroneously begin with the theme that man is not naturally a carbohydrate eater and, indeed, contain many similarities. I cannot recommend either diet to the general public.

School nurses' roles to be conference topic

How school nurses' talents can be utilized more effectively will be the subject for discussion at a day-long conference for school administrators and principals, jointly sponsored by the office of the Cook County Schools Superintendent and the Lake Shore-Calumet Valley Division of the Illinois Association of School Nurses on Aug. 22 at the Holiday Inn in Hillside, Ill.

The conference will focus on discussions of school nurses' involvement in general school health services, in coordinating health education programs, the role they might play in school building safety procedures, and the legal aspects of school health.

Cost of the meeting is $10 and includes lunch and materials. Reservations and information can be obtained by calling the County Superintendent's office at 443-7609.

Everybody has an excuse for not quitting smoking...

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some people can quit smoking "cold turkey," some turn to various clinics to kick the habit, and some even try hypnosis.

Then there are the smokers who make lovely excuses for going right on using the weed.

A Mayo Clinic specialist has compiled a list of excuses from his patients on why they go on puffing. Dr. Leon Shirlaw's list is in the current newsletter from the Health Insurance Institute.

There is the reasoning given by one patient, "It is the only way I can clear my chest in the morning," Another says, "It steadies my nerves."

THE PHYSICIAN lists these others:

"My father was a nonsmoker. Look what it did to him."

"If I stopped I'd put on weight."

"It makes it possible for my wife to live with me."

"It makes life with my wife bearable."

Dr. Shirlaw smokes too, but insists for a "genuine reason." He explains, "I smoke because it makes me cough. And coughing is the only genuine exercise I get these days."

THE STATISTICS are nothing to sneeze about.

The season is upon us when one out of every 15 Americans suffers allergic symptoms and hay fever instead of the weather often is the opening for a conversation.

There are a lot of misconceptions about familiar allergies and to correct some of them, the Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center at New Hyde Park, N.Y., has put together a quiz.

The center, which originated the pollen count, uses the Durham Counting Chamber, a device that traps airborne pollen grains on a microscopic slide.

Its reports are fed daily to news media in the greater New Yrok area. Other medical centers in other parts of the country now are doing the same for their areas.

NOW FOR the quiz.

If a person has "hay fever" he or she is allergic to roses, goldenrod or grasses? Answer: grasses.

If a person has "hay feber" he or she is allergic to goldenrod, ragweed or hay?

Answer: ragweed.

Most pollen is dispersed from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m., or from midnight to 6 a.m.?

Answer: from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The best place for a hay fever sufferer on a day with high pollen count is in his own neighborhood, at the beach or in the mountains?

Answer: at the beach.

The Hollywood Scene

by Vernon Scott

HOLLYWOOD — James Brolin, Robert Young's co-star on the "Marcus Welby, M.D." television series, is forming his own production company but he's stuck for a name.

Maybe you can help. "I should run a contest," Brolin suggested in frustration.

"I've been trying to come up with a good corporate name that would have some significance for me and the people who see our movies."

Show business corporate names aren't as simple as in the old days of Universal, Warner Bros., Fox, MGM and Paramount.

TODAY JOHN Wayne's outfit is "Batjac," and Pat Boone's is "CoogaMooga." Steve McQueen's company is "Solar" and Clint Eastwood's is "Malpaso." "Sundance" belongs to Robert Redford. Burt Reynolds has "B.R."

"Maybe 'Cooga Mooga' has some meaning for Pat Boone but it doesn't make sense to me," said the serious, darkly handsome Brolin who has moved from television to movies with "Skyjacked" and "Westworld."

"I'd like to have something plain and simple like 'The Movie Co.' but it's already registered to Peter Bogdanovich. The outdoor sounds of 'Sante Fe Productions, 'Cougar Productions' or 'Stagecoach Productions' appeal to me. But then everyone would think I was doing only westerns.

"I thought about "Nickelodeon Company' and 'The Great American Movie Co.,' "The Hollywood Trucking Co.' But then you're getting into hippie abstractions like "The Flick Co. "

Jim has toyed with the idea of combining the first initial of his name, with those of his wife Jane and son Josh for "Three J Productions" or some such.

"I'd prefer some imaginative name," Brolin said. "A good name can stimulate me as well as the public."

BROLIN WAS asked why he chose to plunge into the abyss of corporate frustrations. Why doesn't he just work for a generous salary and leave the headaches of finance and organization to others?

"Because I love to take chances," he replied. "I gambled when I began making movies during the hiatus of the television show. But it worked out.

"I find a lot of people in control of making movies who are incompetent. Either they get 'trippy' with films and go with trends or they're out of touch with the public. As the head of my own corporation I could choose the sort of pictures I want to make. I already have."

X-RATED FORM! Slowing up play for his professional playing partner — Debbie Austin — is Herald sportswriter Paul Logan in the Pro-Am at Midlane Country Club's Child and Family Services Open last week. Debbie 'survived' the lanky Paddock Publications hacker to play superb golf in the $30,000 pro tournament.

Pressure

Sportswriter plays 18 with pro

by STAFF WRITER

Pressure called the shots long before Paddock Publications' answer to George Plimpton mounted the first tee at Midlane Country Club.

Those striped ball shots on the practice fairway were quite shaky for the Herald Sports Department's resident hacker, Paul Logan.

About a dozen spectators eyed every shot by Logan and the other practicing players. The attention obviously took its toll as witnessed by one lurching swing after another, failing miserably to hit one straight and long.

Nobody mistook Logan for anything but what the bulge just under his chin marked him as — a choke amateur.

For some reason, possibly a computer mistake, this sportswriter received an invitation to play 18 holes in the Pro-Am portion of the Child and Family Services Open last week at Midlane Country Club.

Following Logan's pathetic attempt to prepare for the 12:32 teeoff time — his moment with destiny — he met his pro partner, Debbie Austin. Her moment of disillusion came about 12:15. It would be an especially long day for her.

Being a Ladies Professional Golf Association tour veteran of nearly six years, she quickly detected his nervousness. These jitters were tripled when two more hackers — one admitting to "usually shooting around 100 to 115" — completed the unfortunate foursome.

The announcer at the first tee introduced Debbie as "one of the longest hitters on the tour." That statement really psyched out her big male playing partners, especially when she backed up the claim with a cruncher of about 240 yards.

After two face-saving drives by his other partners, Logan teetered to the tee.

The 50 or so people who made up the permanent gallery seemed as if they were waiting for some amateur to really blow a drive. Logan seemed a prime candidate.

One could guess why his lips were faintly moving as he waggled his driver. He was actually praying (which he admitted later) for (1) the Herald photographer not to shoot while he was swinging and (2) for a shot of 100 yards or more.

Taking the picture may have helped him. The much hated click of the camera probably distracted him just enough to swing correctly for a change. He actually got the ball airborne.

Logan, playing with a maximum 18 handicap, could have helped his team to the top prize, but he only managed three pars. And this is a guy who claims to have once played for his high school's golf team. Can you imagine how hurting it was for players? To save his embarrassment and to keep "just a staff writer" working, his disasters won't be mentioned here.

Debbie played a masterful round despite the lingering effects of a flu bug. Somehow she managed to tune out Logan's exchanges and learned something about the 6523-yard, par 73 test. Heading into the final round Sunday, she held a three stroke lead.

If she didn't have nightmares Saturday night of her Pro-Am round with Logan, there's a good chance she'll be enjoying her first tour title today. She just missed the week before in Columbus, Ohio.

Anyone who has to listen to a sportswriter for five hours as well as duck his erratic shots deserves nothing less.

DETERMINED DEBBIE Austin follows another boomer down the fairway at Midlane Country Club, site of the Child and Family Services Open last weekend. Debbie obviously didn't suffer any ill effects playing a round with Herald sportswriter Paul Logan in the Pro-Am. She was the talk of the tournament after the opening two rounds with a three-shot advantage.

Rebels suffer 11-3 setback in title game

The Chicago Hornets worked over three pitchers for 15 hits and eliminated the Northwest Rebels Sunday afternoon in the championship game of the Greater Midwest Semi-Pro league baseball playoffs.

Scoring 10 of their runs in the first four innings, the Hornets marched to an 11-3 victory at the Skokie Park District field.

The Rebels, red-hot in reaching the playoffs and a 2-0 winner over South champion Cragin on Saturday, sent Rick Peekel, Terry Smith and Dan Kennedy to the hill in an effort to slow down the hard-hitting Hornets and only Kennedy enjoyed much success.

It was the third victory in three outings for the Hornets over the Rebels this season.

The Rebels scored a single run in the fourth inning on a home run by Wally Weiner, who drove in all three in a busy afternoon's work. In the fifth, with one out, Bill Maffy reached on an error, Bob Andreas walked, and Mike Wulbecker walked to load the bases. Weiner delivered with a single to drive in the Rebels' final two runs of the 1973 season.

The Hornets had tallied a pair in the first on a single, walk, double, and single and after a single run in the second ond two more in the third, they put the decision well out of reach with a five-spot in the fourth. They chased 10 men to the plate in that big inning.

Northwest only collected two hits after its two-run fifth with Frank May and Steve Smith rapping singles.

With the loss the Rebels finished the season with a 21-10 record, remarkable considering they were 12-8 at one stage.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Rebels	000	120	000—	3- 4-4
Hornets	212	500	10*—	11-15-2

The Rebels worked their way into the championship game of the single elimination tourney with an impressive 2-0 victory over Cragin on Saturday.

Randy Cordova went the distance for Northwest and allowed only four hits, striking out five and walking one.

Northwest scored a single run on the third on a single by Wulbecker, two ground outs and single by Dean Sheridan.

The final run came across in the fourth when Bruce Eberle singled, Andreas walked, and Steve Smith slammed a sacrifice fly.

SCORE BY INNINGS

Cragin	000	000	000—	0-4-0
Rebels	001	100	00*—	2-8-1

Player-coach May was happy with the team's progress over the 1973 season.

"The fans were great, even in this final game when we got behind," said May. "We can't thank the people enough for supporting us this year. And Pat Kennedy and Harry Kinser helped us so much financially. Enough can't be said about them either. We didn't win the tournament, but we made the finals in our first year in the league and that's something to be proud of."

Area men hold Midlane marks

Two area men had special interest in the scores at $30,000 Child and Family Services Open at Midlane Country Club.

They wanted to see if their course records would hold up against the charge of the talented lady professionals.

Dan Hawkins of Mount Prospect is the pro at Midlane, and he holds the course mark of 65. Hawkins had rounds of 32-33 in his record effort.

Chuck Pedersen of Arlington Heights, former pro at Midlane, holds the nine-hole mark on the course with a sizzling 30 in 1966.

Pedersen shot his 30 on the back nine while playing in an exhibition with trick shot specialist Paul Hahn and singer-golfer Don Cherry. Chuck had an eagle, four birdies, and four parrs. His best 18 at Midlane was a 67.

Three Cubs set for visit tonight at Palatine Mall

What is better than one baseball player from the Chicago Cubs? The Palatine Mall Merchants' Association feels it has the answer to the question in announcing that three of the team's players will be appearing at the Palatine Mall Shopping Center this Monday.

Guests of the Merchants' Association will be Billy Williams, Jose Cardenal and Fergie Jenkins. The three ballplayers will be appearing at the center from 6-7:15 p.m. in the courtyard area. The sports guests will be distributing pictures to the first 200 youngsters.

The shopping center is located at Hicks and Baldwin at Northwest Highway in Palatine.

CHECKING OVER the line of hockey sticks at Walsh's All Seasons Sports Center in Palatine is Keith Magnuson, star defenseman of the Chicago Black Hawks. Magnuson was a special guest Thursday as a part of the grand opening celebration for Walsh's All Seasons Sports Center, 48 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine. The store is open from noon to 9 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturdays.

Junior tennis feature set for River Trails

A true "Illinois State" junior tournament is promised this year by River Trails Tennis Center, Mount Prospect, where a seven-clay-court complex will host the boys' 18 and 16 events Aug. 20-24.

"For years the Illinois State Junior, however large its entry list, was simply the Chicago District tourney all over again," chairman-pro Ken Mackowiak points out. "This time we're making a concerted effort to attract the top youngsters from throughout the state as well as northern Indiana, southern Wisconsin and western Michigan."

One of the early entrants is Bob Sokolov of San Francisco, who holds a Northern California ranking and will compete in 16 singles and doubles.

Brad Holland of Chicago, who won the 18 title last year as a 16-year-old, is expected to defend his laurels. One of his chief challengers will be Mike Blankshain of Oak Park, the 16 champion a year ago.

Harrison Bowes of Deerfield, 1972 runner-up in the 16s, will be back for another shot at the lower-age crown.

Other contenders in the 18s include JimMerkel and John Paczkowski of Arlington Heights, the reigning state high school doubles titleholders. It will be Merkel's last junior tourney. He'll enter Northern Illinois University shortly while Paczkowski will return for his senior year at Arlington.

Palatine Hills slates tourney

The Palatine Hills Men's Golf Association and the Palatine Park District will co-sponsor a tournament for junior golfers at the Palatine Hills Golf Course on Thursday, Aug. 16.

The tournament will be for 18 holes, medal play and is open to all junior golfers 12 to 18 years of age. Competition will be divided into three sections according to age; Division A includes 17 and 18-year-olds, Division B has 14, 15 and 16-year-olds and Division C has 12 and 13-year-olds.

The entry fee is $1 plus greens fee and is now being accepted at the Palatine Hills Pro Shop. The entry deadline is Aug. 14.

Elk Grove hockey facts

The Elk Grove Midgets won their eighth straight hockey game in the Oak Brook Summer League with a 7-1 conquest of Oak Park.

Goalie Steve Cimino was outstanding in the nets again, and he also stopped a penalty shot in the final period.

Elk Grove opened the scoring with Mike Walsh's goal assisted by Bob Brunn and Mike Tucker. Larry Mitsch scored the second goal assisted by Walsh, and Tom Malone counted the third assisted by Mitsch and Gary Pratchard. Jim McLorain's goal, with assist from Bob Morita, gave Elk Grove a 4-0 first period lead.

After Oak Park scored Brunn tallied for Elk Grove, asisted by Mitsch and Jack McLoraine. Joe Danca scored the sixth goal assisted by Mitsch and Malone, and Mark Rodseth counted the seventh assisted by Tucker and McLoraine.

With four games remaining Elk Grove holds a slim two-point lead over the second place team, and they play the current runnerup three times in the final four games.

Next game is Thursday, Aug. 16, at 6:15 p.m. at the Oak Brook Twin Ice Forum.

Traditional bombardment

When Bobby Murcer clubbed four consecutive home runs in consecutive games in June, 1970, he was the fourth Yankee to turn the trick. Previous sluggers included Lou Gehrig, Johnny Blanchard and Mickey Mantle. Gehrig hit his four in one game.

TEACH YOURSELF TENNIS

21. The Return of Serve (II)

The intermediate player takes the return-of-serve exactly as the beginner, but he is more concerned about depth and accuracy. Intermediates seldom play against net-rushers, and therefore they need not be concerned with low net clearance. As long as one's opponent is in the backcourt, the ball can clear the net by 10 or 15 feet. The higher the ball goes over the net, the more likely it is to land deep; a low-net-skimmer usually lands in the area of the service court, and therefore is only effective against an opponent who is coming to net.

The intermediate player has learned to control the ball; he can hit a ball deep to his opponent's backhand with reasonable consistency. He will win most of his points by hitting with better depth and consistency than his opponent.

The advanced player has a much larger repertoire of shots. He is capable of playing against a server who takes the net because his return is low, hard and accurate. He is also a strategist, playing not only his strength but his opponent's weaknesses.

C. P. Floors takes five points in Scratch action

With only three nights of play remaining in Old Orchard Scratch League play, it looks like C. P. Floors intends to remain in first place to the finish.

Last Friday night the Floors boys took five points in a duel with L-Nor Cleaners, the fourth place team. Alternate Jack Wheeler helped the Floors cause as he carded a 39, good for a win.

Robert L. Nelson Realty, led by Bill Pautke's best-of-the-year 37 score, took 6½ points from Arlington Realty. Looks like Nelson was determined to solidify last place for the Arlington boys, who are now 12 points behind Nelson, the next to last place team.

Peters and Co. Realty also gained 6½ points in its match with Miles and Miles. The insurance team was "handicapped" with only two members present, resulting in three matches forfeited.

Silo Restaurant and Bob Burrows Chevrolet battled to a standstill at 3½ points each the remain in second and third places respectively. Bill Hugo and Jim Keane turned in 37's for Silo as did George Johnson for Burrows.

Frank Kasper turned in a one-over-par 37, his season's best, to lead Sauganash Corporation to four points over Baird and Warner. Frank birdied the 170-yard number three hole, which helped secure the best ball and low total points for his total.

Winners of golf balls for closest-to-the-pin shots on par three holes were Mark Ganzer on 14, Augie Tamburrino on 11, Chris Lordots on seven and Frank Kasper on three.

Reminder to all players: the days are getting shorter. Please try to get started earlier.
